

FULL DOCK TODAY

Many Offenders Sentenced in Police Court

Michael Finnegan, better known throughout the city as "Mike Finnegan" was present in police court this morning. He was not there as a spectator as he has been on several occasions, but occupied a seat in the gilded cage. The charge against him was larceny, he having annexed himself to a wash boiler at the Racket store in Middlesex street Saturday night.

Patrolman Ealy was riding his bicycle through Middlesex street Saturday night shortly before seven o'clock when he happened to see Mike standing in front of the Racket store looking through one of the windows. Now the fact that Mike had been arrested on several occasions for larceny and also that he was acting in a suspicious manner caused the officer to "stop, look and listen."

Just outside the store door was a wash boiler which might have brought quite a little change if sold for junk or pawned, and the watching officer did not have to wait long before he saw Mike grab the boiler and walk away.

When Patrolman Ealy accosted Finnegan and tried to have him explain where he got the boiler, the latter told the officer that it was none of his business. The officer then attempted to put Mike under arrest, but the latter objected. A struggle ensued, but it was a short one for a half Nelson on Mike caused him to stop his struggles and a few minutes later he was occupying cell 13 at the police station.

Finnegan, when arraigned in court this morning, pleaded guilty and strange to say did not offer any defense. The fact that it was the third time within a year that he had been before the court for larceny caused Judge Hadley to sentence him to four months in jail.

Stole Clothing
The sight of clothing and other articles hanging outside of the second hand stores in Middlesex street is a great temptation to some people who pass through the street and almost every day some article is stolen.

Max Wells, who is the proprietor of one of the second hand establishments in that street, has always got a large display of clothing hanging outside the store and he has to watch the garments very closely in order that they are not taken.

Saturday morning he had a man before the court for the larceny of a coat and this morning James F. McNulty was charged with the larceny of a coat. According to Wells McNulty stole the garment more than a week ago and since then has been among the missing.

McNulty blew into town Saturday night, however, and was placed under arrest by Inspectors Maher and Walsh. McNulty entered a plea of guilty and was fined $15.

Sunday Dances
Despite the facts that a sextet of foreign residents of this city was arrested a few weeks ago for dancing in upper Market street on the Sabbath, and fined in court, Sunday dancing has not been abandoned, and last night five men were arrested in a house in upper Merrimack street on this charge.

Music was being furnished by Theodore Mavroses and the four dancers gave their names as Peter Laganas, Angles Laganas, George Scourtses and Stavros Balafaras.

They were arraigned in police court this morning, found guilty and fines of $5 were imposed.

Sent to State Farm

Bartholomew Clifford thought he could fool the police by giving a fictitious name when placed under arrest, and he almost succeeded. He gave his name as Garret H. Stack, and was fined $2 as it was thought that he was a first offender, but before court adjourned Clifford's identity was discovered and he was sentenced to the state farm.

In Stabbing Case

The case of Joseph Hanna, charged with assault and battery, was continued for one week. It is alleged that Hanna figured in a stabbing affray a couple of months ago and "jumped" out of town when he found that the police were looking for him.

Mr. Stanley Black denied that he was drunk yesterday when arrested by Patrolman W. Giroux and Ganley. The officers, however, testified that Stanley was very drunk and ugly. When placed on the stand Black acknowledged that he had been drinking whiskey, but had not touched a drop of rum. He was fined $5.

John B. Edra was arrested with Black and acknowledged that he was drunk. It was his second offence and he was fined $5.

Roger A. Preston and Frank T. Canole, Sunday drunks, were fined $5 each.

Woman Sent to Jail

Harriet Busbee was charged with being drunk. The arresting officer, Patrolman Sheridan said that she was in the habit of "holding up" and asking them for money. She was sentenced to four months in jail.

John H. Dunlavy, a fifth offender, will spend Thanksgiving and Christmas down on the (state) farm.

Thomas F. Murray, a parole man from the state farm, will be returned to that institution.

Adeline Hubert and Rose Nice got drunk Friday night and were raising such a racket in a house in Ford street that they were placed under arrest. On Saturday morning each was fined $3.

Immediately after getting out of court they started to celebrate, the result being that Saturday afternoon they were arrested again. Fines of $5 were imposed.

Joseph McGuigan, Thomas Horan and John Bowles, second offenders, fined $5 each.

Patrick L. Lynch said that if he were given a chance he would take the pledge. The court thought that there was some good in the man, and gave him a suspended sentence of three months in jail.

First offenders were fined $2 each and five simple drunks were released with out having to appear in court.

THE WANNALANCIT CAMPERS

The Wannalancit campers kept open house at their finely located camp on the banks of the Merrimack river yesterday afternoon. A number of guests from out-of-town were present and a pleasing musical program was carried out.

The program was as follows:
Piano solos, Miss Nora Donohoe and Miss Guggenlocker; Mr. J. McLaughlin and J. Roberson; solos, Mr. Ross Ellis, Fred Cotter, Ed. Cotter and F. Slavin. Among those present from out-of-town were the Misses McGlynn and Guggenlocker of Lawrence; Misses Clark, Sheehan and Messrs. Ellis, Turcott, Cunningham, Slavin, Fred Cotter, Edward Cotter, J. McLaughlin, J. Roberson, Mason, J. Doyle and C. Doyle.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Jones of Kenwood, are rejoicing over the arrival of a baby girl. The little stranger arrived yesterday, Sunday.

FATHER MATHEWS

Of Billerica Observed Their Anniversary

The Father Mathew Total Abstinence society celebrated the 21st anniversary of its organization with a banquet and dance in Thomas Talbot Memorial hall, Saturday night.

The affair was opened with an excellent dinner which was served in the dining hall, covers having been laid for 200 people. At the conclusion of the dinner, post-prandial exercises were held. The address of welcome was delivered by President Timothy J. McCarthy. Other speakers were Rev. Lawrence R. Tighe, O. M. I., spiritual director of the society; Vice President James Gallagher of the Mathew Temperance Institute of Lowell and Probation Officer Edward F. Slattery.

Father of the M. T. I. of Billerica.

Mr. Slattery, who was the last speaker, gave a temperance speech, in which he described the evils of drunkenness as he sees them every day. "There's no place for the drunkard but hell. They don't want him in the bar-room where he leaves his money and he is not wanted elsewhere while he continues to use intoxicating liquors to excess."

Rev. Fr. Tighe briefly reviewed the history of the society during the 21 years of its existence, and he referred to the amount of good that has been done in North Billerica during that time. Mr. Gallagher also spoke along temperance lines.

At the conclusion of the exercises all repaired to the upper hall, where dancing was enjoyed till a late hour, music being furnished by Kittredge's orchestra. The success of the affair was due to the work of the following efficient officers: General manager, Timothy J. McCarthy; assistant general manager, James A. Higgins; floor director, Dennis J. Mahoney; assistant floor director, Wm. D. Costello; aids, John S. Welsh, Nell R. Mahoney, Joseph Kearney, John E. Hughes, Fred J. Cannon, Charles E. Cowdrey, Edward Costello, William Taylor, Herbert Fairbrother, Ambrose Hennessy, John Mahoney, George Hughes, James Barton; reception committee, Edmund Costello, chairman; James Bradley, Michael Coughlin, Owen O'Toole, Martin Conway, Thomas Sheridan, Edward Riley, Carol Delahanty.

The following young ladies composed a committee that materially assisted to make the affair a success: Misses May McCusker, Christina Kearney, Eliza Blake and Isabel Fairbrother.

JUDGE GASKILL

Tell Their Troubles to Judge Gaskill

The divorce court was crowded this morning when Judge Gaskill opened court both within and without the lawyers' rail.

Most of the cases called during the morning were uncontested, out-of-town cases.

In one of the out-of-town cases in which the libellant wanted a divorce on the ground of desertion, Judge Gaskill sharply questioned the libellant as to whether he made any efforts to get his wife back after she had left him. The libellant answered negatively and the court after hearing the other witnesses dismissed the libel.

In all other cases the libellee was called.

Herbert C. Riddick of this city asked for a divorce from his wife, Gertrude E., on the ground of desertion, and Judge Pickman appeared for him. Riddick, his mother and his grandmother offered testimony as to the desertion, which dates back to Aug. 26, 1905. The husband stated that they had never had any trouble except that his wife wanted him to furnish the house and to live in a manner beyond his means. He had sought her out after she left him, but she would not return to live with him.

As he had finished testifying Judge Gaskill said: "I notice that this case was brought just three years and two days after the date of the alleged desertion. Was there any particular reason for such haste in suing for divorce?"

The witness answered negatively, stating that he knew that his wife would not return to him and that as soon as the time limit had expired he had brought proceedings.

"Had you any expectations of marrying anyone else at that time?" asked the court.

"I had not," replied the witness.

The libellee was called.

The libelles were also called in the out-of-town cases of Josephine E. Peckum vs. George L. Peckum and Ella C. Billings vs. Harry E. Billings both for desertion.

Emma M. Hazleton of this city, sought a divorce from her husband, Herbert E. Hazleton, on the ground of intoxication and cruel and abusive treatment. Mrs. Hazleton testified that on different occasions her husband had assaulted her and that on one occasion when she threatened to call an officer, he pulled a revolver and fired a shot through the door. The libellee was called, and after two other witnesses had testified to having seen Hazleton assault his wife.

D. Mabel Smith of West Medford, sued her husband, Dr. Frank S. Smith, on the ground of gross and confirmed habits of intoxication. The libellant and two physicians testified as to the husband's habits and the court ordered the libellee called.

EDWARDS CHENEY

Tendered Reception by Employees of P. O.

Edwards Cheney, who was recently appointed assistant postmaster to fill the vacancy caused by the death of the late Julian A. Richardson, was tendered a reception Saturday night at Elks hall by the employees of the local office.

Besides the local clerks and carriers, there were guests from the postoffices in the surrounding cities and towns.

Seated at the head table were Frank T. Rogers of Chicago, president of the National Association of Postoffice Clerks; Postmaster A. G. Thompson, Assistant Postmaster Edwards Cheney and Supt. of Carriers A. S. Ashworth. Geo. L. Adams, president of the local branch of letter carriers and chairman of the committee on arrangements, called the gathering to order and feelingly referred to the death of the late assistant postmaster, Julian A. Richardson, paying fitting tribute to his memory, after which the post office quartet sang the "Vacant Chair." The clerks and carriers gathered in a circle and were presented to Assistant Postmaster Cheney by President Adams. Speechmaking was next in order; remarks were made by Assistant Postmaster Cheney, Postmaster Thompson, John F. Farrell and President Rogers of the national association of clerks, who spoke interestingly of the work accomplished by organization.

An excellent musical program under the direction of David P. Martin pleased the guests immensely. Solos were given by John J. Kennedy, Thomas F. Mcagher, E. J. Aker, John E. Roane, Fred Campbell, D. A. Mahoney, C. Austin Carey, David Dwyer, D. P. McHugh and D. A. Martin. Robert Fay was pianist.

The affair came to a close at midnight with the singing of "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow." The committee in charge was: George L. Adams, Pres. J. F. Farrell, Sec. John E. Roane, John E. Burns, John J. Slack, Albert A. Sparks and George L. Howard.

PROF. MARTEL

Took Unto Himself a Bride Today

St. Joseph's chapel of St. Jean's church was the scene of a very pretty wedding this morning when Prof. Arthur J. Martel, the organist of St. Jean's church, and the popular piano teacher, was united in matrimony to Miss Stella Dumont. The ceremony was performed by the pastor, Rev. Fr. Campeau, O. M. I., according to the French custom the father of the young couple, Messrs. Edmund Martel and

Charles Dumont attended in the capacity of witnesses, in place of the usual bridesmaid and best man.

As the couple entered the chapel Miss Ernestine Alexander, who presided at the organ, played a wedding march. During the ceremony Miss Antoinette Montmarquet sang "Ave Maria," Miss Anna Bourassa rendered "L'ange" and "Carmen," and Miss Nelida Cote "Vol-saires Vieux."

After the ceremony the couple paid an informal visit to the home of the uncle and aunt of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. V. Lahaie, on Spalding street.

The wedding breakfast was held at the home of the groom's parents, at 477 Moody street, and was attended by the immediate friends. The Middlesex orchestra, of which the groom is a member, was present, and during the morning discoursed sweet music.

Mr. Martel's gifts to his bride were a solid gold watch and a ruby ring.

The bride was attired in a becoming gown of white French cashmere of Princess design and carried a huge bunch of pink chrysanthemums. When leaving upon the wedding tour, she wore a London smoke broad-cloth gown and a black picture hat.

Mr. and Mrs. Martel left this city on the 12:12 train this noon on a brief wedding tour, as the groom's position necessitates his speedy return to Lowell. The couple received many and costly wedding presents.

FUNERAL NOTICES

BRACKETT—Died in this city, Nov. 21, at 317 Bridge street, Albert W. Brackett, aged 71 years. Funeral from the rooms of J. A. Welch Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

ANOTHER DEATH

In the Family of Dennis F. Sullivan

While still in the depths of sorrow over the death of their beloved and talented son, the late Paul A. Sullivan, who passed away three weeks ago, the grim messenger has once more descended upon the grief-stricken home of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis F. Sullivan, of 125 Warwick street, taking away another promising son, Mr. Charles F. Sullivan, who died yesterday after a brief illness.

THE LATE CHARLES F. SULLIVAN

The late Paul Sullivan was but 13 years of age, and was one of Lowell's most promising young musicians, having already composed several instrumental selections of more than ordinary merit. Charles Sullivan, whose death occurred yesterday, was but 23 years of age and was beloved by all who enjoyed the pleasure of his acquaintance. Like his brother, he was a young man of exemplary character, and unusual talent. He was born in this city, and after graduating from the local schools, entered the establishment of the Butterfield Printing company and learned the printing trade, at which he was employed up to the time of his illness a few weeks ago. He was a popular member and past officer of the Mathew Temperance Institute, and was known as one of the principal "hustlers" of the society, no work in the interest of the society being too arduous for him to attempt and carry through to a successful conclusion. He had served as recording secretary and vice-president and had his life been spared, undoubtedly would have been president of the society in the near future. He was also a popular member of the Holy Name society of St. Peter's church. Besides his parents he is survived by three brothers, Humphrey F., John E., and William, and three sisters, Mrs. Minnie Laflamme and Misses Sadie and Lillian Sullivan. To the grief-stricken family is tendered the deepest sympathy of a wide circle of friends. Funeral notice later.

William R. Yeoman, formerly of this city, is now proprietor of the Pawtucket poultry farm at Raymond, N. H.

500 IN DANGER

Steamer Admiral Dewey Collided With the Mt. Desert

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—The lives of more than 500 persons were imperilled yesterday when the fruit steamer Admiral Dewey, inward bound from Jamaica, ran into the steamer Mount Desert, outward bound from Bay Ridge for the fishing banks. The Admiral Dewey, coming suddenly out of a fog bank, struck the Mount Desert almost amidships, opening a gap in the fishing vessel which extended from the upper decks to the water's edge. There were 450 passengers, including 20 women and six children on the Mount Desert, and the Admiral Dewey carried 45 passengers, nearly all of whom were postal clerks returning from a trip to Kingstown, Jamaica. There were also the crews of the two steamers.

Panic immediately followed the collision, and it was due to Capt. Davidson of the Admiral Dewey, that a catastrophe was averted, for the passengers on the fishing steamer began piling over the guard rails of that vessel and jumped to the deck of the Admiral Dewey. Had he backed his steamer away, they would have fallen into the water.

Capt. Davidson signaled the engine room to keep the steamer moving slowly ahead and this kept the sharp prow of the steamer in the rent that had been made and afforded safety for the frightened passengers of the Mount Desert.

This the two steamers moved slowly toward the east bank of the lower bay, while a wild scene was occurring on the decks. It was believed the Mount Desert would sink and the passengers sought frantically to get to the deck of the Admiral Dewey. Many of the women of the fighting steamer fainted. The children ran about the deck, crying, and men battled with each other to reach the steamer's deck. Above the uproar could be heard the voices of Capt. Davidson of the Admiral Dewey and Capt. Debee of the Mount Desert, assuring the terror-stricken people that there was no danger.

A number of persons were slightly injured in the stampede. Men and women crowded over the guard rails so rapidly that they tumbled upon each other. Capt. Cornelius J. Hayes and Lieut. Samuel G. Belton of the city police department were passengers on the Admiral Dewey, and it was largely due to them that no one was seriously injured. Belton rescued one woman who had been pushed from the deck of the Mount Desert and was hanging by one hand to the shattered guard rail of the Mount Desert. And he and Hayes stood at the prow of the Admiral Dewey and pulled the men and women to safety as they swarmed on the deck.

In a brief 15 minutes fully 350 of the passengers of the Mount Desert reached the deck of the Admiral Dewey. By this time the Admiral Dewey had pushed the Mount Desert close to the east bank. The former drew more water and Capt. Davidson discovered that his steamer was striking bottom.

Nearly all the passengers of the Mount Desert had been transferred, and the panic was subsiding, so Capt. Davidson signaled to the engines to stop and a few minutes later the boats drifted apart.

Wrecking tugs and other boats had been dispatched to the scene as soon as word of the accident reached Quarantine and then New York. The Mount Desert was taken in tow, but later went under her own steam to South Brooklyn, where she docked to permit the rest of the passengers to go ashore. She then went to the Morse drydock for repairs.

Meantime, the Admiral Dewey proceeded through the Narrows and up the river to her pier, where the passengers, including those from the Mount Desert, were landed.

The Admiral Dewey is in the service of the United Fruit Co.

TEXTILE NOTES

Interesting Items From Mill Centers

Saturday's issue of the New York Commercial under a Fall River data had the following:

James Tansey, president of the Textile Council, has submitted his report on the margins between cotton and cloth for the last 18 working days, which dates back to May, when a reduction of 17.34 per cent. was made in the rate of wages of the operatives. The report states that the margins aggregate $835,7604 and that the average daily margin is 60.066 points. The highest price for middling uplands cotton was 12.20 and the lowest 3 cents. The highest quotation for 28-inch 64x84s was 3 1/2 cents, and the lowest 3 cents. The highest quotation for 38-inch 64x84s was 4 1/2-3, and the lowest 4 cents. The highest daily margin during the period was 77.7612 and the lowest was 52.2418. Middling uplands cotton is selling today for 9.45 and the quotation on 28-inch 64x84s is 3 1/2 cents. The quotation on 38-inch 64x84s is 4 1/2 cents, and the margin today is 76.1612. Thus, the margin today is over 16 points higher than the average for the last 148 days and the trend appears to be upward.

The margin is based on the cost of eight pounds of middling upland cotton and the selling value of 5 yards of 28-inch 64x84s and 33.11 yards of 38-inch 64x84s and is computed at the end of every six months and the average daily margin for this period determines the rate of wages that shall be paid for the succeeding six months. The agreement, which was entered into between the Cotton Manufacturers' association and the Textile Council some time ago stipulated that 21.78 cents shall be the recognized standard price for a margin of 95 points based on the cost of the above cotton and the selling values of the cloth mentioned.

The highest margin named is 23.86 cents for weaving a cut of print cloth with a margin of 115 points and the lowest 18 cents with a margin of 72 1/2 points. The average daily margin for the past six months is 60.066 points, which is practically 4 points below the minimum rate. The low margin since May compels a reduction of little more than 3 per cent. in the rate of wages that shall be paid the operatives in this city beginning on Dec. 7. The wages of the help is based on 19.65 cents next month, the help will be paid on the basis of 18 cents. With the reduction of 17.34 per cent. made last May, and the eight or more per cent. to be made within a few weeks, the operatives in this city will have sustained a cut aggregating about 25 per cent. within a year.

AN INJUNCTION

AGAINST AMERICAN TELEPHONE AND TELEGRAPH CO.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 23.—Judge Taylor, Saturday, granted an injunction against the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. (Bell long distance system) and the Central Union Telephone Co. (Bell company operating in Ohio, Indiana and Illinois), restraining them from interfering with the business of the independent companies operating in those and adjoining states. The injunction was granted at Cleveland upon the application of Clarence Brown, general counsel, and James S. Bralley, Jr., president of the United States Telephone Co., which is the independent long distance telephone company, operating in Ohio and adjoining states, in a suit brought by that company.

It is charged the Bell organization is pursuing the policy of buying independent exchanges or selling Bell exchanges where there are competing companies, and in some instances of absorbing independent companies by merger and consolidation, or division of territory, so as to eliminate competition and establish a complete Bell control. This is said to be in violation not only of the Sherman anti-trust law, but also of the laws of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and other states in which the companies operate.

GIVING THANKS

Discourse by Rev. A. F. Dannels Yesterday

At the Highland Congregational church, Sunday, the pastor, Rev. A. Frederick Dannels, preached on "The Practical Thanksgiving." He said, in part:

"How can thanksgiving be made practical? By having enough of it in our hearts to compel its expression by our lips. Perhaps the nine lepers who were cleansed and returned not to give glory to God, felt a degree of it in their hearts, but the commendation of Jesus was reserved for the one who returned with expressions of gratitude on his lips. There is gold probably in these rock ribbed hillsides of old Massachusetts, but not enough to be practical. We want gold in quantities enough to find expression for itself. The kind of gratitude that would not be turned aside from a service of thanksgiving on Thanksgiving day by the attractions of a football game, or the morning mall, or the office desk.

"Practical thanksgiving is that which moulds conduct to please and gratify one's benefactor. The psalmist found that one who had sat at his board, his own familiar friend had lifted up his heel against him. This is an abnormal as for water to run uphill, but evil is abnormal. The public man does not take a pass or personal favor from constituents, lest he lose his freedom to act his convictions in the legislative halls. Gratitude is obligation. Personal conduct which pleases the great giver of good and perfect gifts is practical thanksgiving.

"Practical thanksgiving is the hand reached out to bear the burdens of a benefactor. Over our splendid American cities rests a cloud darker than the smoke of their factory chimneys. By the testimony of a woman in a Lowell police court, there is a place of business where her husband has spent $15,000. In return he has received the loss of his position in business, loss of his friends, loss of self-respect and loss of liberty. That is a highwayman's business. Help God to drive it from our midst. The hurrying steps of those who come up to the help of the Lord against the mighty. That is practical thanksgiving.

"Dear Jesus, this church should be dear to you. I watch the currents of our canals and see the homes they have supported, the hunger they have satisfied, the lights they have kept burning to drive back the shadows against the window pane. But this church has been a channel through which God has caused rivers of living water to gladden youth and manhood. At that quarter century anniversary of green compared with the bare branches and brown grass outside these walls, we may sing such anthems that it may seem as when angel bands swept their harps of gold over Bethlehem's plains; but no observance can be so fitting as for young people to offer their names to the work of the church, in recognition of its work for growth these five and twenty years; and men and women in recognition of the work which God, through this church, has done for manhood and womanhood. That is practical thanksgiving."

SPEED TRAPS

AUTO CLUB TRIES TO STOP RECKLESS OPERATING

Reports received at the headquarters of the American Automobile association indicate that the officers of many of the Boston automobile clubs, which have been placed on record as strongly opposed to speeding and reckless driving, are content with this action alone, but intend to place the responsibility where it rightfully belongs, upon the motorists of other states, who in many cases do not show any desire or inclination to observe the local speed laws. Many of the automobile clubs affiliated with the American Automobile association have during the past several months endeavored to break up reckless driving by speed traps through the principal thoroughfares, and the Automobile club of Springfield has taken drastic action which will without doubt have a far-reaching effect.

At a recent meeting of the board of directors of the automobile club of Springfield, one of the largest and most influential clubs in New England, it was decided to have suitable traps printed which will be displayed in all of the hotels and garages in Springfield and vicinity along the popular routes into the adjoining states. The cards will call upon automobilists to use the roads in a safe and sane manner, and if they fail to comply with the club's request, the directors have decided that there is but one alternative; that is the establishment of official club speed traps. The Springfield club is determined that the speed laws shall be properly observed, the local motorists feeling morally responsible for the acts of the motorists from other states, and they will not hesitate to establish traps if it is deemed necessary.

The directors of the Springfield club have taken this step upon their own initiative, without waiting for specific complaints to be made, and in this connection have taken more radical action than the other clubs in New England, which have been considering the best means of discouraging the continuous speeding over the highways. It was only a few weeks ago that Secretary Elliott of the American Automobile association sent a warning against reckless driving to the officers of the 200 automobile clubs scattered throughout the United States to the effect that drastic action by the automobile legislation would surely be enacted in many of the eastern states, particularly by Connecticut, if a stop was not put to the reckless driving. There has already been some agitation for the repeal of the Connecticut automobile statute, considered one of the modern motor vehicle laws in the country, unless the automobilists touring through the state, cease speeding and thereby tend to diminish the number of accidents which have occurred to other users of the highways.

If there is anything which automobilists dislike, it is a speed trap, and if the plan of the automobile club of Springfield is carried out, there is no doubt that it will have the desired effect, at least in Springfield and vicinity, of abating the fast and reckless driving of automobilists.

Timely Sermon by Rev.
C. T. BillingsDR. MEAD WOULD BLOCK GIN
MILL WHEELNo-Licence Sermon at Hathaway's
Theatre—Rev. Mr. Billings Preaches
Thanksgiving Sermon

Rev. C. H. Mead, D.D., of New York was the speaker at the Y. M. C. A. services at the Hathaway theatre, Sunday afternoon, and he was listened to attentively, by a gathering of men that well nigh taxed the seating capacity of the theatre.

He spoke in the interest of no-licence and he was not a stranger to many of those who heard him yesterday, he having taken an active part in the campaign for no-licence in this city a year ago.

His subject yesterday was "The Two Ladders." He described one as leading up and the other leading down, and it was far from a compliment that he paid Fall River when he said: "The top of the one and the bottom of the other are as far apart as heaven and Fall River."

Dr. Mead had already said that the church was at the top of one ladder and the saloon at the bottom of the other.

The speaker said there is no neutral position in the present desire for better conditions. On the one side he placed the home and family and on the other the breweries and saloons. He asked all the voters present to vote "no" at the coming election.

Worthing Street Baptist

Dr. Mead delivered a no-licence sermon at the Worthing Street Baptist church last night. "The Mills That Grind" was his sermon topic and he laid particular stress on the gin mill. He said in part:

"The voter runs the gin mill. By his ballot he says the mill shall grind, and it grinds in the name of the city of Lowell. The boy, the girl, the man and the woman all go into the mill, and the machinery is maintained by your vote. Who cares about the victim? Who cares about the mother? And why is the mill running? For dollars only. Undoubtedly the revenue from the traffic will influence some voters to cast their ballots for license. But which would you rather have, the

END OF A RED NOSE

New Flesh-Colored Product That
Heals and Hides Skin Imperfec-tions.

A peculiar feature of postum, a new skin discovery, is that it is naturally flesh-colored and contains no grease, so that when used on the face for the complexion, or for pimples, red noses, or any other inflammations, blemishes, or discolorations, its presence cannot be detected. It can thus be applied in the daytime, the natural color of the skin being immediately restored and the actual healing and curing process accomplished in a few days. It can be had of any pharmacist who sells pure drugs. Falls & Burdickshaw and Carter & Sherburne's drug stores make a specialty of it. Fifty cents worth will answer either for the troubles mentioned or in curing ordinary cases of eczema. Itching stops at once.

The Emergency Laboratories, No. 32 West Twenty-fifth street, New York are the sole dispensing agents for postum in the United States, and will send an experimental quantity free by mail in plain wrapper to all who write for it. This will show results after an overnight application.

sweet, clean boy coming home or the boy drunk?"

"The Habit of Gratitude"

At the First Unitarian church, Sunday morning, Rev. Charles T. Billings preached on "The Habit of Gratitude."

The habit of feeling of gratitude as spoken by Mr. Billings, yesterday, had special reference to Thanksgiving.

He said it should mean a new inspiration for a nobler life. In part, he said:

"Spiritual power grows through expression, as the muscles grow strong through exercise; and what is hard for men at first, becomes the highest natural expression as they live on the heights of moral and spiritual manhood."

"All this is just as true of habits of gratitude. They are not easily acquired, yet they always mark our ideal of the true man."

"The essential condition of gratitude is that we receive some benefit. But many receive much who are not grateful. To be truly so, there must be some recognition of benefit. That recognition is the first step in forming the habit, and even that is none too common."

"There is danger in religion, that the form may be empty because the heart is not in it. There is danger that Thanksgiving may have as little to do with real gratitude, as noisy demonstrations have to do with real patriotism. Real gratitude can only come as a real expression of love to God. That is why Thanksgiving meant so much to

MARATHON CHAMPION HAYES AND DORANDO
READY FOR THEIR GREAT AMERICAN RACE

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—This illustration shows John J. Hayes, the American Marathon champion, and Dorando, the Italian, who was his closest competitor in the Olympic games, as they appeared in training for their New York race. Dorando came to this country expressly to challenge Hayes, and the race is arranged to take place in Madison Square Garden, New York, on Nov. 25. The winner will receive a large percentage of the gate receipts. Hayes met the Italian runner at the Hoffman House, where the articles were signed. One of the accompanying photographs shows Hayes greeting his rival on that occasion.

our fathers. Their gratitude was the expression of a love that was real.

"What, then, does Thanksgiving mean to us? It depends wholly on the steps toward gratitude that we have taken. Perhaps we are accepting life and all it brings us as a matter of course; then Thanksgiving is but the holiday. Perhaps we measure the gratitude we ought to feel by the benefits we have received; still the Thanksgiving remains a holiday. Perhaps we have learned to look beyond the benefits to the giver, and feel within us a sense of gratitude to forces that have helped build up our lives. Perhaps we have traced the giver to the ultimate source, the power of God, and then we join in the spiritual expression of the day; and finally, perhaps, the recognition of God makes us eager for a worthy response, and Thanksgiving day means a new inspiration, for a nobler life. Then it means what it meant to our fathers."

"Doctor's Daughter"

THANKSGIVING MESSAGE.

Once more the day of Thanksgiving is upon us, once more the God of Love and Thanks breaks through the rift and we raise our eyes to our Maker and say, "Let us give thanks for this day."

Thanks for our dear ones that surround us, for our health, our home, our opportunities and possibilities, for the privilege of living and loving. Perhaps you are situated comfortably, surrounded by friends and family, or perhaps you have no home at all and the struggle for existence is indeed a struggle. Memories filled with despair and sadness may crowd upon you. Such memories feed upon, deplete and devour the very life of their victim. Crowd them out, shut your whole soul to the joy of thanksgiving. No matter what your station in life, you surely have still much to be thankful for. Restore your child-heart and heaven itself will light your way.

Many have come to me this week full of praise and thankfulness for their restored health through Stomach-Rite, and that this grand old remedy may be the means of making Thursday, Nov. 26, 1908, truly a day of joy and thanksgiving to many sufferers is the earnest wish of

KILLED HIMSELF

Man Had Previously
Tried Suicide

MANCHESTER, N. H., Nov. 23.—Carroll Johnson, aged 39, was brought from Hooksett to the Sacred Heart hospital at midnight Saturday night and died yesterday morning without regaining consciousness, from the effects of a self-inflicted wound from a 23-caliber revolver. The bullet entered the left temple, took a backward course and was embedded in the brain.

Johnson was found unconscious on a back road near Marlins Ferry at 8 o'clock Saturday night by Ernest Burbank, who heard the shot as he was walking down the road. He had passed by the spot, going toward Martins Ferry only a moment before, carrying a lighted lantern, but had not seen Johnson and believes he was in hiding. It is said that he had tried suicide before.

MRS. MORRELL
WELL KNOWN PORTRAIT PAINTER
DIED SUDDENLY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Mrs. Imogene Robinson Morrell, a celebrated portrait and historical painter, died early yesterday in a small room of a lodging house, alone and friendless, and amid surroundings of squalor and distress.

A half century ago she was a student under some of the world's masters in Europe. In 1879 she established the National Academy of Fine Arts in this city. She had received scores of medals for notable works.

Mrs. Morrell enjoyed the distinction of being the only woman whose painting occupies a place in the U. S. Capitol, she having executed the notable picture of Gen. John A. Dix. More than 200 works of her brush were destroyed in a disastrous fire 13 years ago.

She was a native of Attleboro, Mass., and 77 years of age.

The sworn daily net average circulation of The Lowell Sun for the year 1907 was

This is by far the largest net average circulation of any newspaper in Lowell.

Some of the candidates assert that the hospitality of certain political clubs comes high.

AN EXAMPLE WORTHY IMITATION.

Judge Bishop did the right thing in sending to prison a chauffeur who was found intoxicated while driving an automobile. It would be difficult to imagine a greater menace to public safety than an automobile in charge of a drunken chauffeur. A sentence to jail will do more good to stop reckless driving than a thousand fines. It is to be hoped other judges will follow the example of Judge Bishop.

THE KAISER'S ERRATIC UTTERANCES.

Soon after the kaiser had delivered himself of a pronouncement of the very kind that he was forbidden to utter, he was effectually gagged by Chancellor Von Buelow, who instead of allowing him to speak extemporaneously handed him a printed speech which his majesty was obliged to read. It was prepared by the chancellor for the occasion, the centenary celebration of the city of Berlin.

The speech, it is needless to say, will cause no diplomatic sensations nor indignation at any foreign court. This is the direct result of the wild and unguarded interview given by the emperor to Dr. Hale, an American, for the Century Magazine and which after a radical revision was finally destroyed after it had been ready for the press.

In the interview the emperor was reported to have said that King Edward had been humiliating him for two years, and that he would welcome a great European war by which it would be shown that Germany is the greatest nation in Europe.

Coming as the deliberate utterance of the head of a great nation, this interview indicates that the emperor is wholly irresponsible at times, and it is no wonder at all that the chancellor and the other diplomats have a hard time keeping him under restraint.

Dr. Hale repudiates the interview as published in a New York paper, but it is the usual custom with diplomats to deny point-blank every interview or word uttered by them in confidence. Dr. Hale was appealed to for the suppression of the interview and has evidently consented.

TO REVIVE APPRENTICE SYSTEM.

At the meeting of the National Society for the Promotion of Industrial Education, in session at Atlanta, Ga., some valuable light is being shed upon the need of better facilities for technical instruction.

Considerable attention was given to the need of reviving the apprentice system in factories. A Lynn man came out as a champion of establishing trade schools in factories. This can be accomplished by simply restoring the apprentice system and giving the apprentices some opportunity to study the related sciences in connection with the trades they have undertaken to learn. These correlative studies can easily be pursued successfully outside the factories in night schools of other institutions.

On all sides the opinion seems to prevail that the present system of instruction in elementary schools is unsuitable to young men who have to go out into the world and earn a living.

The school curriculum is not sufficiently practical for the average boy. There are at present few trade schools in which young men can learn trades. The system of manual training in the high schools of Massachusetts is educational, not technical, and people who did not at first perceive its use say it is a failure. It is not. It should be in the grammar schools rather than the high schools, however.

The state of Massachusetts is making some progress in the direction of establishing trade schools and a trade college, but it is going very slowly and very cautiously in the matter.

A great deal more could be accomplished by the revival of the apprentice system in factories than through any of the government trade schools. The factory would thus become in reality a school of trades. The time may come when this matter may be the subject of legislation favoring the apprentice system in factories. If the state expends money to establish industrial or trade schools why would not money be equally well spent in encouraging the apprentice system by which a vastly greater number of boys could learn trades than would be possible through even a large number of industrial schools?

This subject is coming to the front in a manner that demands attention of all educators and of parents who are anxious for the welfare of their children. The Massachusetts Industrial commission has presented some excellent ideas on the subject and some which it is to be hoped will be ultimately embodied in legislation to facilitate the learning of trades by young men and to make more practical the educational system in our schools.

There is a question whether the proposed trade school can be made a sort of extension of the present school system or whether it will be separate and distinct. It might be less expensive to have it under the direction of the school boards of cities and towns but this would entail the danger of making the whole system unwieldy and the results correspondingly disappointing. The whole problem is one that we surmise will be slow of development.

SEEN AND HEARD

A pleasant incident is reported from London in connection with the Eucharistic Congress. At the great meeting in Albert Hall a strange woman, dressed in a black and white costume, greeted Cardinal Gibbons in the corridor and asked him for his blessing. The cardinal smiled and asked her what she always knew this. He recognized the difficulty which beset an actress and wished to express his satisfaction in her consistent piety. Therefore he blessed her. She then kissed his hand, gave her his blessing and commended her for her edifying life.

I think this is an old one revamped, and if to your own personal knowledge it has whiskers call on the barber at my expense.

The business man had nervous prostration and in fact a general collection of things that made it look good for the doctors and his own family doctor ordered him away from the scene of his business engagements for at least six weeks. He was perfectly quiet and not to bother him with the news of the day.

At the end of six weeks the business man returned and was met at the depot by his coachman. No sooner had they left the depot than the business man asked: "What's the news, and what has happened since I've been gone?"

"Nothing that amounts to much," replied the coachman.

"No news at all, eh?"

"Oh, that reminds me, that your pet dog died since you've been gone."

"What happened to him?"

"He ate the meat of a horse that was burned to death and it poisoned him."

"Where did he get the meat of a burned horse?"

"That reminds me, your barn was burned and your horses perished in the flames and the meat from one of the horses killed the dog."

"How did the barn catch?"

"A spark from the house set the barn on fire."

"From the chimney, you mean?"

"No, and that reminds me again that your house was burned to the ground."

"How did the house catch?"

"A candle tipped over and set fire to a lace curtain."

"My house was lighted by electricity; we didn't use any candles."

"Well your mother-in-law died and they were waiting her. Of course, there are always candles at a wake and as I said before one of them tipped over."

"You're sure that my mother-in-law is dead?"

"Yes."

"No doubt about it?"

"No."

"What caused her death?"

"Oh, that reminds me. Her death was occasioned by the shock caused by your wife running away with the other coachman."

It is remarkable that the baby ever learns to talk straight, considering the amount of fool English that the girls always lavish on them.

When a woman doesn't mind if her husband is indifferent to her, they are reasonably sure not to have any misunderstandings.

It is hard for a minister to be good himself, but think of the burden it must be to keep other people good.

If a girl's feet are smaller than those of her rival she isn't altogether miserable.

When a laboring man's boy goes wrong people say it is hereditary. When a millionaire's boy goes wrong, people say it is perversity.

An old fellow met John Turner, one of the republican candidates for alderman, yesterday and said to him:

"See they nominated yer?"

"Yep," said John.

"By the way Turner, what's your business?" asked his friend.

"I make Jack screws," responded the candidate.

"Well, won't you make if you get the election?" inquired the persistent const.

"I'll make one that'll raise the city debt," dryly answered John.

SHINE WHERE YOU ARE

Don't waste your time in longing for bright, impossible things. Don't sit supinely yearning.

Because you are not a star; But because you have a bit of darkness. By shining just where you are.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

ONE CULPRIT CAUGHT

Bookman Times, in the case of the convicted king, it is really gratifying

ing to know that in one case at least the real culprit is the one who is caught within the grasp of the law and not a mere dupe or dummy.

WHAT LABOR NEEDS

N. Y. Journal of Commerce: Labor needs to learn the value of efficiency and fidelity to its own interests, and if the unions would devote themselves to impressing their members to get all they can for as little as possible they would serve a far more beneficial purpose for workmen as well as for the community.

THE TEXAN WAY

Springfield Union: It has remained for Texas to develop the latest wrinkle in agricultural fair displays. At the Dallas fair recently, in the dairy section there was an exhibition of cows being milked by machinery. The milk thus obtained in sight of the visitors was conveyed to other machinery close at hand and came out at the end in the shape of the cream without being touched or handled by humans. Can any of our "Yankee" cattle shows beat that?

THE LAW'S DELAY

Boston Herald: Atty.-Gen. Bonaparte, addressing the National Municipal league convention, has used his caustic tongue to ask, why, in this country, there need be so often, "a forest of eternity between arrest and indictment of criminals, another forest between indictment and trial, and yet another between trial and actual punishment." He justly said that "the gravest and least excusable delinquency of our criminal law is found in its endless delays," and he correctly argued that much of popular discontent and current unrest is due to the imperfect workings of the courts, the obstacles that are put in the way of swift and severe punishment of crime. Removal of these obstacles, acceleration of the courts' procedure, withdrawal of many of the technical rights now given to individuals as over against the state's rights before the courts, would lessen and disperse much of the criticism of the judiciary, now heard in quarters where it formerly was not felt.

PEOPLE OF NOTE

Guglielmo Ferrero, the noted Italian historian, who recently completed a history, "The Greatness and Decline of Rome," has arrived in New York.

Colonel George H. Torney, who has been appointed surgeon general of the army, is a Baltimorean by birth, and was in charge of the work of sanitation during the San Francisco earthquake and fire.

William Arnold Shanlin has been appointed surgeon general of the Wesleyan university. He is at present vice president of the Upper Iowa university, at Fayette, Iowa. At one time he served as pastor in Reading, Pa. He is widely known and highly esteemed in both church and educational circles.

The Anti-Cruelty society of Chicago has gone to the aid of horses that are unable to draw loads up the inclines at the Rust street bridge. In charge of an employee of the society, a big draught horse has been stationed at the steep end of the bridge for use in assisting horses with heavy loads up the grade. The horse will be kept in use all winter and arrangements may be made for permanent service. This plan is in line with that of the S. P. C. A. of New York, which tries to make the hilly streets of that city passable in slippery weather by sprinkling them with sand.

Ernest Thompson Seton seems to be deliberately opening up a chance for an assault upon himself as a nature-fact. In the new story about to begin in the Century he "lays out" to show that for ages the animals have been groping for an ideal form of marriage; and his avowed purpose in the new story is "to show the man-world how the fox-world lives—and above all to advertise and emphasize the beautiful monogamy of the better-class fox." The story of Domino Rex, Mr. Seton told a questioner, "gives the life history of a fox in the form of fiction. It is fiction founded on fact, on my own observations, extending over a period of many years. Domino Rex, the hero of the story, is a composite of some 30 or 35 foxes that I have watched as they appeared either in a wild state or tamed in different households. Among other moral qualities which I have thus discovered in the fox is a strong monogamous tendency in his family relations."

STANDARD OIL

Testimony Totals Near 4,000,000 Words

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—The federal suit to dissolve the Standard Oil Co.,

which has reached a high point of interest

within the last few days with the testimony of John D. Rockefeller, president of the so-called oil trust, bids fair to establish records which will probably stand unbroken in legal archives for some time to come. Because of the length of the recorded testimony the United States circuit court judges, who will render the decision in the case, will learn of the evidence only from the summing up of counsel for both sides. To read the evidence which has been taken would require constant reading by the judges for ten hours a day for many months. The official stenographer says that the testimony totals nearly 4,000,000 words, besides an equal number of words and figures contained in the exhibits.

The suit against the Standard Oil Co. was entered in the federal court in Missouri over two years ago and that it might be expedited for final judgment it was determined to have the case tried before four circuit judges of the federal court, so that the decision might be appealed directly to the United States supreme court. Former Judge Franklin F. Ferris was appointed master to take testimony and he will certify the evidence to the court.

The taking of testimony was commenced in this city on September 17, 1907, and it has continued with only a few brief recesses of the hearings until the present time. The hearings will not conclude until some time in February, the defense having until December 1st to complete its case and the government having thirty days for rebuttal. It is likely, however, that an adjournment will be taken through the greater part of December.

Every word of the testimony at the hearings in this and other cities in which evidence has been taken, has been taken by one stenographer, Robert Taylor of St. Paul. The oral testimony taken to date covers 12,000 typewritten pages of about 300 words each.

The exhibits, consisting of copies of agreements, contracts, railway and pipe line sheets, fills six large volumes and counsel believe that when the case is completed the record will be about that of the testimony taken in any previous case in either this country or in England.

Argument of this long and important case has been fixed before the United States circuit court on February 23 next in St. Louis, and Frank Kellogg, special attorney-general conducting the federal suit, said yesterday that it would take a week or ten days for both sides to sum up. Merritt

Rosenthal, of counsel for the Standard Oil, will in all likelihood present the argument for the defense.

TWO KILLED

MEN PROBABLY WERE STRUCK BY AUTOS

OSSING, N. Y., Nov. 23.—Almost in front of the gate leading to the estate of William Rockefeller on the Boston post road, were found yesterday the bodies of William Arthur Purdy and Wm. Kramer, both of Tarrytown. There is considerable mystery concerning the manner in which they were killed.

The bodies, found by a milk man, were lying some distance apart and were terribly mutilated. It is believed that the men were returning home yesterday morning and that they were struck by an automobile and killed. Then other automobiles passing over the road, ran over the bodies.

NIGHT EDITION

FIRE MARSHAL

To Investigate the Blaze in the Scully Block

A fire, evidently intent upon destroying the Scully block at the corner of Coburn street and Lakeview avenue, made a second attempt at its destruction late Saturday night.

It was about three weeks ago that the firebug made his first attempt and at that time, as was the case Saturday night, he set fire to the building in two places. He used kerosene on both occasions and the only way that his attempt of Saturday night differed from that of three weeks ago was that he started one of his fires on the top floor.

He started the other fire on the second floor and both fires were in the untenanted portion of the building.

The flames had quite a gait on when the firemen arrived but the light didn't last long and the damage was not very serious. The fire of three weeks ago was investigated, but the fire marshal failed to trace out the guilty one.

This fire, too, will be investigated. Chief Hosmer has reported it and he expects that Mr. Flynn of Lawrence, the public fire marshal, will come to Lowell today or tomorrow.

ANOTHER PARK

Suggested to Beautify Municipal Buildings

BIG GAIN IN COUNT FOR WARD FIVE MAN

Busy Time For Inspector of Wires— Voters Assessed by Request—Billera Street Bridge Conference—New Chinese Restaurant

Now that Monument square has been made to look part and parcel of the city hall lot, its surroundings having been made to harmonize with the surroundings of the municipal palace, the not altogether new suggestion of having a park on the far side of the municipal buildings, the city hall and the public library, is being quite freely discussed.

While watching men who are today engaged in cleaning the monument in Monument square, a prominent citizen with an eye to the beautiful was heard to remark: "I wish that I were in a position to buy the lot beyond the public library and present it to the city for a park. What a splendid finishing touch it would put on the appearance about the municipal buildings to have a nice park on the other side! To do away with Coburn street and make a park of the Coburn lot would be the proper caper."

"Make the suggestion to Mr. Ayer," said a bystander.

"Mr. Ayer," said the first speaker, "has contributed more than his share to the beauty and welfare of Lowell. Few cities can boast of so generous a philanthropist. It seems to me that Lowell must have some other man who would build a park for the city and a monument for himself."

Gain for Connors

For the first time since the caucuses, Jeremiah F. Connors, candidate for aldermanic honors on the democratic ticket, made his appearance at city hall today and his visit was very satisfactory to him. Jerry lives in precinct 2 of ward five and when he scanned the returns as published and found that in a neighboring precinct, which was precinct one, he had received but 157 votes, he allowed that there must be something wrong. He had a number of chums and a host of friends in that precinct and he couldn't understand that bit of news of the vote. "I'll investigate that," said Jerry, and today he investigated and he found that he had received 237 instead of 157 votes. That gives him a grand total of 4105 votes and he is second to none, "captain Alderman Brennan. Jerry is 900 stronger in the primaries than he was last year, and it will be remembered that last year he was only 24 votes short of election. It would seem that the day's best bet that Jerry will partly off one of the aldermanic chairs in 1910.

Inspector of Wires

The city's inspector of wires is inspecting the wiring on new buildings throughout the city including the Highland school. All of the new buildings on which he is engaged have been mentioned in the new buildings or real estate columns. He inspects the wiring to see that it conforms with insurance requirements. Steel conduits are being used for the Highland school wires. The inspector is also called upon to inspect the wiring of the electric lamps that have been installed in the store windows in Central street.

Assessed by Request

When the assessors report back that they have been unable to locate John

Smith or Jim Brown, it means that the names will be dropped from the list, but when the assessors say that 2000 names have been dropped it does not always mean that we are that many short. The assessors work in a manufacturing city where the population is always a floating one is not an easy task and it is somewhat surprising, everything considered, that they reach as many as they do. If they could but know where the man they are looking for lived a year ago it would help some, but they cannot always find that out.

Now as to the men that the assessors fail to locate there is still the opportunity for them to be assessed if they so desire. They can go to the assessor's office and request to be assessed and they come under the head of the "O. R.s." which means "own request."

"The number of 'O. R.s.' this year was 705, made up from the different wards as follows: Ward one, 66; ward two, 200; ward three, 43; ward four, 115; ward five, 114; ward six, 66; ward seven, 32; ward eight, 10; ward nine, 47.

Billera Street Bridge

Tomorrow forenoon City Solicitor Hill will meet counsel for Boston & Maine railroad and the county commissioners at the commissioners' office in Cambridge, to discuss the Billera street bridge matter. When the proposition to raise the bridge and widen the street was made the Boston & Maine, at a remonstrance, did not appear as a remonstrant but to state that the company would not bear any part of the expense. The matter then went to the commissioners and the commissioners will say whether or not in their estimation the railroad should bear a part of the expense.

New Chinese Restaurant

A permit to make alterations in the building at the corner of Middle and Central streets has been granted Wong Quon of John street, and Lowell is due for another Chinese restaurant. The alterations will have to do with the upstairs part of the building occupied by Charles H. Joyce and conducted by him for a time as a restaurant. The alterations will include the taking down of partitions and including three rooms in one; the putting in of a large window with balcony and several other changes of more or less importance. The estimated cost of the changes is $500.

Purchasing Agent's Office

The purchasing agent's office is re-splendid in a new coat of varnish and a generous application of kalsomine. Tomorrow morning in this office of shining walls and immaculate ceilings, bids will be opened for oats and corn for the street department and drugs for the dispensary.

Meetings Tomorrow Night

The common council will meet tomorrow night at 8 o'clock and at about the same hour there will be a meeting of the school board.

STANDARD OIL

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—Rockefeller testified today that he did not conceive the plan of the formation of the original Standard Oil trust in 1882.

"I'm sorry to say that I didn't," said Mr. Rockefeller. "I can't claim any credit for that. Mr. Flagler and S. T. Dodd conceived it."

"Did you not sign a paper on March 10, 1875, requesting an increase in capital stocks as follows:

"W. H. Vanderbilt by J. D. Rockefeller, his attorney?"

"That may be," The paper would be the best evidence."

Mr. Kellogg brought out the fact that A. M. Stone, then president of the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern R. R.; Stillman Witte, a director of the Lake Shore and Big Four roads, and J. P. Handy, also a director of the Big Four, were taken into the Standard Oil Co. in the early days.

Mr. Rockefeller said that P. H. Watson seemed to have access to W. H. Vanderbilt and witness thought he afterwards became president of the Erie railroad.

"And he was president while he was a stockholder in your company?" asked Mr. Kellogg.

"If so he was not a stockholder for any length of time," The witness said he did not think that any officials of the Pennsylvania railroad were connected with the Standard Oil Co.

"Then in the early days you had a president of the New York Central, a president of the Erie, three directors of the Lake Shore and all the stockholders of the South Improvement Co. except three as stockholders of the Standard?"

"My testimony will show."

From a list read by Mr. Kellogg the witness identified 15 small companies which Mr. Rockefeller said were purchased by the Standard and he said he believed from 20 to 25 concerns.

REQUIEM MASS

At the Immaculate Conception church at 8 o'clock Thursday morning, a high mass of requiem will be celebrated for the repose of the soul of the late William F. Cole. This mass is requested by the Knights of Columbus and a number of the members of the order will attend the service.

ROLLER SKATING RACE

A skating contest has been arranged to take place in the Centralville rink, this city. There will be races for a purse of $50 and the winner of two will take the championship of the city. Albert Nebes, one of the contestants holds the world's record for one mile, it being 2 minutes, 29 seconds; also the 25-mile record, 1 hour, 16 minutes, 2 seconds. Both were made in New York city last spring. Nebes is the winner of 180 out of 185 races, having lost two, dropped out of two and tied one. Landry, his opponent has been skating for 5 years and has defeated many of the best skaters in the country including Hamilton Perrault, Williams and others. He was the only Lowell skater to defeat Thomas McDermott when the latter was skating his best, three years ago. He has made fast time in the Centralville rink for two miles. His best time being 25 minutes, 21 seconds. He has never been defeated in a two mile race yet, and says Nebes will have to go some to beat him.

Following is the schedule:

First race, Thanksgiving night.

Second, Saturday, Nov. 25.

Third, Saturday, Dec. 5.

Races started at 9 o'clock sharp.

Tomorrow evening there will be a joss stick party at the rink. No admission will be charged.

A very pleasant surprise party was held at the home of Miss Nellie Herlihy of Crosby street, Friday evening when she was presented a beautiful silver ring. The presentation speech was made by Mr. James Gill. Miss Herlihy responded in a fitting manner. The musical program carried out included: piano selections, Miss Sadie Woman and Mrs. Annie Herlihy; solos, Miss Olive Ambler; duet, Mrs. Thomas Gill and Mr. Thomas Moran; selections, America Glee club quartet; cornet solo, Mr. Thomas Sullivan. Refreshments were served.

were bought in Cleveland.

"How many did you keep in operation?"

"I could not say."

"Any of them?"

"I should have to think that over."

"Were not most of them dismantled?"

"The smaller ones we used in construction and the larger we connected with our plants. We ran the Clark, Schunney, Co., the Clark, Payne & Co., and Hanna, Basington & Co."

"The witness could not recollect any of these except Clark, Payne & Co. were opened in 1880. He could not say whether he gave the stock of the Standard Oil Co. in payment for that of the Devco Mfg. Co. Replying to Mr. Kellogg's question whether the brothers of Josiah Macy operated the Standard Oil of the Devco company for several years after the Standard bought it Mr. Rockefeller said that the organizers of the Devco Co. returned their work. It might have been true, he said, that Mr. Carley operated the Chess, Carley Co. after the Standard had bought it.

Mr. Kellogg asked whether John Pilegrini and Mr. Vandergrift of the Imperial Refining Co. did not continue as managers of the Imperial Refining company after it was purchased by the Standard Oil Co.

"I think the business was conducted in the same manner," said Mr. Rockefeller. The witness said that after the Standard Oil Co. purchased Warden, Frew & Co., and the Atlantic Refining Co. of Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, Mr. Warden, Mr. Frew and Charles Lockhart became stockholders of the Standard and continued in the management of these companies. He could not recall whether stock of the Standard was exchanged for stock of the Atlantic Refining company.

BOULGER'S TOUR

Commissioner Made a Hotel Visit on Sunday

Police Commissioner Boulger visited some of the hotels yesterday and observed conditions closely. In one hotel he inquired of the proprietor for his facilities for cooking, and whether or not he charged for his soups and sandwiches or gave them away.

Some hotel keepers welcome the visits of the commissioners to their hotels and state that if the commissioners would only come around and see for themselves they would be less likely to believe half the stories that are being circulated relative to the "Sunday business."

STORE WINDOWS

Are Well Lighted These Nights

Perhaps you have noticed that the store windows in Central street for the last two or three weeks have been brilliantly lighted until midnight and maybe you have wondered why.

The "why," perhaps, rests with the Lowell Electric Light company, for, as we understand it, the proposition was originally theirs, and the storekeepers are so well pleased with the arrangement that there is no doubt as to its being made permanent. It not only lights the stores so as to attract the attention of passersby but it also lights the sidewalks and makes things better and brighter all around.

The light being used is the new tungsten lamp and the lamps are regulated by time switches that work automatically. One switch, cares for three or four stores. The lights are turned on about 15 minutes after sunset and burn until midnight.

This process of store window lighting is not to be confined to Central street but will be extended to Merrimack street and "the city that does things" bids fair to be a brilliantly lighted city.

CHELMSFORD DRY

Drought Still Holds Out With Slight Improvement

The drought still holds out in Chelmsford and in some cases farmers are walking their cattle a considerable distance to the brooks to water them as the result of dry wells. To mention the economical use of water seems ridiculous on first thought and yet the farmers of Chelmsford are using the water in their wells most economically and are preventing the slightest waste of water.

The recent snows and rains have shown a slightly favorable effect on some of the wells in the town and a slight increase has been noticed in the ponds and brooks, though this is attributed to rains and snows at a distance. The mill pond which has been dry throughout the summer began to show signs of water before the rains and snow visited the neighborhood.

Unless rain or snow fall before the deep frost sets in the townspeople are likely to experience a drought that will last through the cold weather.

In North Chelmsford the residents are taking their hats off to Ex-Selectman James P. Dunnigan who introduced the driven well water service to the village. While the conservative citizens were loath to vote money for the innovation of driven wells this fall has convinced them of the many benefits to be derived from them, and the village wouldn't go back to the old arrangement under any circumstances. In fact they have recently added 10 wells to the original plant and the new wells show even a bigger capacity than the old.

WIRELESS PROBLEM

PARIS, Nov. 23.—Bellini and Tosi, Italian scientists, who, with the sanction of the French government, have been conducting experiments in wireless telegraphy for the last 18 months on the coast of Normandy, announce that they have solved the problem of independent wireless communication. This result, they say, has been secured by means of two rectangular aerials fixed at right angles and so attached to the apparatus for reception and transmission as to permit the transmission of unequal currents. By the simple law of mechanics these two electro magnetic forces unite and produce an electro-magnetic field and the hertzian waves are projected in a single vertical plane which can be alternated immediately by means of the bobbin device. The inventors say they have picked up messages at will from every English wireless station and from ships at sea and that they transmitted messages from Pourville to Havre and other points without the waves being perceptible at the other stations lying just off the line of transmission. They assert that their system insures absolutely instantaneous communication and opens up absolutely new advantages in the use of the wireless telegraph. Among these are the finding of the exact position of a ship in distress, the position and speed of a hostile squadron and the reading of secret exchanges between friendly fleets and armies.

TRACEY WON OUT

Recount of the Councilmanic Vote in Ward Five

The recounts, for councilmen, in wards two, five and six were completed today and the only difference in results to effect nominations was found in ward five where Bernard J. Tracey and Cornelius J. Sullivan were tied, the original count giving them 337 votes each. The recount gives Tracey 331 and Sullivan 338 and Tracey wins the nomination by three votes.

Mr. Sullivan who is a bright, clean, industrious young man has had rather bad luck on narrow margins, his experience of last year being a defeat by one or two votes. Mr. Tracey also is a clever young man.

There was no material change in ward six and the changes in ward two were as follows: Bagley gained 2, Brady lost 1, Connors gained 2, Carter gained 2, Gallagher no change, Geokian lost 5, Healey lost 2, Hoar gained 10, Kearns gained 6, Mahoney, Mickelt and Monahan no change, O'Neill lost 1 and Ryan gained 1.

The contest in ward six was between Daniel J. Clark and John J. Haviland. Clark lost 1 and Haviland gained 2. This, however, does not affect the nomination.

FRANCIS J. HENEY

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 23.—The Call this morning prints the first interview granted to the press by Francis J. Heney since the district attorney was shot in Judge Lanyon's court room Nov. 14 by Maxine Healy. The hearing of one of the cases against Heney was in progress. After expressing devout thanks for his escape, Mr. Heney said:

"In this great human battle against vice and corruption let no one believe that the true source is to be found in the individual offenders. My brothers, lawyers and assassins, and that their extermination means ultimate victory. Such beings are but the bubbles welling from the pool of filth that has been years in making. The true

$5,000,000 LOAN

Man Sought it From John D. Rockefeller, the Oil King

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—William Abbott Foster, who says he was once a merchant in Boston and who was arrested as a vagrant on Saturday night at the Hotel Clarendon, where he and his family had run up a bill of almost $3500 during a year's stay there, was held in $1000 bail by Magistrate Barrow yesterday morning in the Tombs court for a hearing on Tuesday.

Special Officer James Forbes of the Charity Organization society, who assisted in the arrest, spent most of yesterday in going over Abbott's papers, which had been seized on Saturday night at the same time their owner was arrested.

The letter showed Foster representing himself to be a mining promoter, putting through immense deals of such weight and moment that he couldn't possibly let on what they were; nevertheless, if the correspondent would lend him on his word say $5,000,000 or $5,000,000 or $2,500,000 or $20, or 50 cents, the lender would be repaid in the hundreds of thousands, got an awfully good job with the company, and at the same time start the borrower upon "a brilliant, dignified, honored and useful future."

Among the men solicited for the large amounts were John D. Rockefeller, Andrew Carnegie, Charles M. Schwab and others. This is a specimen of one out of perhaps thirty letters that he wrote to Rockefeller.

"No. 108 East 15th St., New York City, New York."

Thursday morning, 8:05—Jan. 23, 1909.

"Mr. John D. Rockefeller, Sr., No. 4 West 54th street, New York City: My Dear Sir—In all fairness and justice to yourself, I ask you if you think that a man who can furnish what is (practically) actual, tangible security of a value approximating $50,000,000—$100,000,000—represented by a free and clear title to one of the greatest deposits of gold bearing gravels and quartz ores in this country—should be denied a temporary loan of $5,000,000, and be permitted to suffer as I am suffering, especially when that same man has pledged himself to dedicate, to good works, at least half of his annual income—for the remainder of his life—after he shall have paid back to you every cent due you on account of both interest and principal?"

"Inch by inch, but none the less surely, I am dying of a breaking heart, and none save Almighty God knows when the crisis will be reached and when both brain and heart will refuse to perform their natural functions."

"I am asking you to do a kindly thing, Mr. Rockefeller, and you are well able to do it, and if you will but realize the possibilities of so great an act, and will appreciate that it offers you no less of an opportunity to demonstrate your bigness than your confidence, and this temporary financial cooperation will insure my being able to do 'truly great' things, it would seem that no further suffering need be experienced by yours faithfully,

"William Abbott Foster."

Foster said he had 13 properties in northern Nevada, California and Colorado, worth at a conservative estimate from $1,000,000,000 to $1,500,000,000, but what they were he told no one, not even Theodore Fitch, his counsel.

INSANITY IS THE DEFENSE

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—Insanity was expected to be the technical defense of Sarah Koten in her trial on the charge of murder of Dr. Martin W. Auspitz, which was scheduled to begin in the criminal court today.

THE TARIFF

ON EARTHENWARE UNDER DISCUSSION TODAY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—It is expected that many points will be contested in the hearing today between the house ways and means committee for consideration of the changes in tariff on earthenware and glassware. The bureau of manufactures of the department of commerce and labor has issued an extensive report on the pottery industry of Germany. This document which was prepared by special agent, Charles Pepper, for the use of congress in its proposed revision of the tariff gives much information regarding the exports of pottery to the United States, the cost of labor and material, freight rates and profits of the industry in Germany. Mr. Pepper places the total annual pottery output of Germany at from $45,000,000 to $50,000,000, an increase of from 80 to 100 per cent. within ten years. About one-half of the product is exported to other countries and in 1907 the exportation to the United States amounted to $7,851,118.

Reception to Fr. Lamothe

At the regular monthly meeting of the Holy Family sodality of St. Joseph's church last evening, a reception was tendered to Rev. Leon Lamothe, O. M. I., spiritual director of the sodality, who has just returned from Rome.

Fr. Lamothe opened the meeting with prayer. Frank Ricard, president of the sodality, read an address of welcome to the clergyman, congratulating him on his trip and happy return, and J. N. Tarte then presented him a purse of $100 in gold, the gift of the members.

Fr. Lamothe responded gracefully and stated that with the permission of the donors he would turn the money over to the new orphanage. Fr. Lamothe then spoke on his travels and imparted the papal blessing given him at Rome for the people of the parish. The exercises concluded with benediction, the choir directed by Frank Gourdeau, Joseph A. Bernard presiding at the organ. The reception was in charge of a committee of 50 headed by Frank Ricard. At all the masses Fr. Lamothe spoke on his travels in Europe. At high mass Fr. F. W. Edwards sang Paulinas "O Salutaris." During the winter Fr. Lamothe will lecture under the auspices of the French American Federation.

Kavanaugh, recently presented James McCusker of North Chelmsford a box of cigars as a slight token of appreciation for his able assistance in drilling the members of the local society for the Holy Name parade that was held in Boston a short time ago.

HATHAWAY'S THEATRE

Newness and novelty in vaudeville attractions is always taken for granted by theatre-goers who have the Hathaway habit, but the entertainment that will be given at the Hathaway theatre during the present week is especially notable along these lines, containing as it does several of the most important of the season's hits. Among them the premier is the exhibition given

Of Billerica Observed Their Anniversary

The Father Mathew Total Abstinence society celebrated the 21st anniversary of its organization with a banquet and dance in Thomas Talbot Memorial hall, Saturday night.

The affair was opened with an excellent dinner which was served in the dining hall, covers having been laid for 200 people. At the conclusion of the dinner, post-prandial exercises were held. The address of welcome was delivered by President Timothy J. McCarthy. Other speakers were Rev. Lawrence F. Tighe, O. M. I., spiritual director of the society; Vice President James Gallagher of the Mathew Temperance Institute of Lowell and Probation Officer Edward F. Slattery.

Mr. Slattery, who was the last speaker, gave a temperance speech, in which he described the evils of drunkenness as he sees them every day. "There's no place for the drunkard but hell. They don't want him in the bar-room where he leaves his money and he is not wanted elsewhere while he continues to use intoxicating liquors to excess."

Rev. Fr. Tighe briefly reviewed the history of the society during the 21 years of its existence, and he referred to the amount of good that has been done in North Billerica during that time. Mr. Gallagher also spoke along temperance lines.

At the conclusion of the exercises all repaired to the upper hall, where dancing was enjoyed till a late hour, music being furnished by Kittredge's orchestra. The success of the affair was due to the work of the following efficient officers: General manager, Timothy J. McCarthy; assistant general manager, James A. Higgins; floor director, Dennis J. Mahoney; assistant floor director, Wm. D. Costello; aids, John S. Welsh, Neil B. Mahoney, Joseph Kearney, John E. Hughes, Fred J. Gannon, Charles E. Cowdrey, Edward Costello, William Taylor, Herbert Fairbrother, Ambrose Hennessy, John Mahoney, George Hughes, James Barton; reception committee, Edmund Costello, chairman; James Bradley, Michael Goughlin, Owen O'Toole, Martin Conway, Thomas Sheridan, Edward Riley, Carol Delehan.

The following young ladies composed a committee that materially assisted to make the affair a success: Misses May McCusker, Christina Kearney, Elsie Blake and Isabel Fairbrother.

en by the Belleclaire Brothers, the world's greatest exponents of physical culture, who have just returned from a triumphal tour of Europe. Their work is as far above the ordinary acrobatic offering as A is removed from Z, and admirers of a perfect physique will go wild over the beauty and symmetry of these athletes' development, and the art of their statuesque postures. The Belleclaires give a series of hand-balancing feats that are a revelation in their difficulty, and the grace and finish with which they are executed. Hartini and Maximilian, burlesque illusionists, are absolute monarchs of the art of false magic. Their travesty on the modes and manipulations of the stage magician is screamingly funny and the skit will undoubtedly be one of the big hits of the show. Gilroy, Haynes and Montgomery will please every music-lover with the tuneful and beautifully-harmonized vocalities and the refined and laughable comedy of their nautical burlesque, "The Good Ship Nancy Lee." The personages in the cast are the gallant Captain Nansen, a pretty woman passenger, and a comical cabin boy. The woman in the act is the possessor of a superb contralto voice, and there are several pleasing musical numbers. Dolly Burton's does provide a show that will be especially interesting to the hundreds of boys and girls who are regular attendants at Hathaway's. The dogs are a wonderful troupe of educated canines, and the tricks they perform indicate an astonishing degree of intelligence, as well as long and patient training. "Bacon, Bone, Brim" is the title of one of the most diverting musical novelties that has ever appeared in variety, and an abundance of excellent instrumental playing is introduced. Harry Breen, the formidable parodist and singer, is a whole show in himself. His parodies with bright and his magnetic way of tendering them insures their success, while his talk is full of points that are spicy and sparkling. Richards and Grove, singing comedians and chance artists, have been secured and will prove a welcome addition to the bill. The moving pictures will contain something entirely new.

Many Offenders Sentenced in Police Court

Michael Finnegan, better known throughout the city as "Mike Finnegan," was present in police court this morning. He was not there as a spectator as he has been on several occasions, but occupied a seat in the dock. The charge against him was larceny, he having annexed himself to a wash boiler at the Racket store in Middlesex street Saturday night.

Patrolman Ealy was riding his bicycle through Middlesex street Saturday night shortly before seven o'clock when he happened to see Mike standing in front of the Racket store looking through one of the windows. Now the fact that Mike had been arrested on several occasions for larceny and also that he was acting in a suspicious manner caused the officer to "stop, look and listen."

Just outside the store door was a wash boiler which might have brought quite a little change if sold for junk or pawned, and the watching officer did not have to wait long before he saw Mike grab the boiler and walk away.

When Patrolman Ealy accosted Finnegan and tried to have him explain where he got the boiler, the latter told the officer that it was none of his business. The officer then attempted to put Mike under arrest, but the latter objected. A struggle ensued, but it was a short one for a half Nelson on Mike caused him to stop his struggles and a few minutes later he was occupying cell 13 at the police station.

Finnegan, when arraigned in court this morning, pleaded guilty and strange to say did not offer any defense. The fact that it was the third time within a year that he had been before the court for larceny caused Judge Hadley to sentence him to four months in jail.

Stole Clothing
The sight of clothing and other articles hanging outside of the second hand stores in Middlesex street is a great temptation to some people who pass through the street and almost every day some article is stolen.

Max Wells, who is the proprietor of one of the second hand establishments in that street, has always got a large display of clothing hanging outside the store and he has to watch the garments very closely in order that they are not taken.

Saturday morning he had a man before the court for the larceny of a coat and shirt and morning James P. McNulty was charged with the larceny of a coat. According to Wells McNulty stole the garment more than a week ago and since then has been among the missing.

McNulty blew into town Saturday night, however, and was placed under arrest by Inspectors Maher and Walsh. McNulty entered a plea of guilty and was fined $15.

Sunday Dances
Despite the facts that a sextet of foreign residents of this city was arrested a few weeks ago for dancing in upper Market street on the Sabbath, and fined in court, Sunday dancing has not been abandoned, and last night five men were arrested in a house in upper Merrimack street on this charge.

Music was being furnished by Theodore Mavrouses and the four dancers gave their names as Peter Lagenas, Angles Lagenas, George Scourtes and Stavros Balafaras.

They were arraigned in police court this morning, found guilty and fines of $5 were imposed.

Sent to State Farm
Bartholomew Clifford thought he could fool the police by giving a fictitious name when placed under arrest, and he almost succeeded. He gave his name as Garret H. Stack, and was fined $2 as it was thought that he was a first offender, but before court ad-

Journal Clifford's identity was discovered and he was sentenced to the state farm.

In Stabbing Case
The case of Joseph Hanna, charged with assault and battery, was continued for one week. It is alleged that Hanna figured in a stabbing affray a couple of months ago and "jumped" out of town when he found that the police were looking for him.

Simon Black denied that he was drunk yesterday when arrested by Patrolmen W. Giroux and Ganley. The officers, however, testified that Simon was very drunk and ugly. When placed on the stand Black acknowledged that he had been drinking whiskey, but had not touched a drop of rum. He was fined $5.

Adam Bedra was arrested with Black and acknowledged that he was drunk. It was his second offence and he was fined $5.

Roger A. Preston and Frank T. Cannon, Sunday drunks, were fined $5 each.

Woman Sent to Jail
Harriet Busbee was charged with being drunk. The arresting officer, Patrolman Sheridan, said that she was in the habit of "holding up" men and asking them for money. She was sentenced to four months in jail.

John H. Dunlavy, a fifth offender, will spend Thanksgiving and Christmas down on the (state) farm. Thomas F. Murray, a parole man from the state farm, will be returned to that institution.

Adeline Hubert and Rose Nice got drunk Friday night and were raising such a racket in a house in Ford street that they were placed under arrest.

In court Saturday morning each was fined $3. Immediately after getting out of court they started to celebrate, the result being that Saturday afternoon they were arrested again. Fines of $5 were imposed.

Joseph McGuigan, Thomas Moran and John Bowles, second offenders, fined $5 each.

Patrick L. Lynch said that if he were given a chance he would take the pledge. The court thought that there was some good in the man, and gave him a suspended sentence of three months in jail.

Two first offenders were fined $2 each and five simple drunks were released with out having to appear in court.

EDWARDS CHENEY
Tendered Reception by Employees of P. O.

Edwards Cheney, who was recently appointed assistant postmaster to fill the vacancy caused by the death of the late Julian A. Richardson, was tendered a reception Saturday night at Elks hall by the employees of the local office.

Besides the local clerks and carriers, there were guests from the postoffices in the surrounding cities and towns. Seated at the head table were Frank T. Rogers of Chicago, president of the National Association of Postoffice Clerks; Postmaster A. G. Thompson, Assistant Postmaster Edwards Cheney and Supt. of Carriers A. S. Ashworth. Geo. L. Adams, president of the local branch of letter carriers and chairman of the committee on arrangements, called the gathering to order and feelingly referred to the death of the late assistant postmaster Julian A. Richardson, paying fitting tribute to his memory, after which the post office quartet sang the "Vacant Chair."

The clerks and carriers gathered in a circle and were presented to Assistant Postmaster Cheney by President Adams. Speechmaking was next in order; remarks were made by Assistant Postmaster Cheney, Postmaster Thompson, John F. Farrell and President Rogers of the national association of clerks, who spoke interestingly of the work accomplished by organization.

An excellent musical program under the direction of David P. Martin pleased the guests immensely. Solos were given by John J. Kennedy, Thomas F. Meagher, E. J. Axon, John F. Roane, Fred Campbell, D. A. Mahoney, C. Austin Carey, David Dwyer, D. F. McHugh and D. A. Martin. Robert Fay was pianist.

The affair came to a close at midnight with the singing of "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow." The committee in charge was: George L. Adams, Pres. J. F. Farrell, Sec. John F. Roane, John E. Burns, John J. Slack, Albert A. Sparks and George L. Howard.

THE WANNALANCIT CAMPERS
The Wannalancit campers kept open house at their newly located camp on the banks of the Merrimack river yesterday afternoon. A number of guests from out-of-town were present and a pleasing musical program was carried out. The program was as follows:

Flauto solo, Miss Nora Donohoe and Miss Guggenlocker; Mr. J. McLaughlin and J. Robertson, solos; Mr. Ross Ellis, Fred Cotter, Ed. Cotter and F. Slavin. Among those present from out-of-town were the Misses McGlynn and Guggenlocker of Lawrence; Misses Clark, Sheehan and Messrs. Ellis, Turcott, Cunningham, Slavin, Fred Cotter, Edward Cotter, J. McLaughlin, J. Robertson, Mason, J. Doyle and C. Doyle.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Jones of Kenwood, are rejoicing over the arrival of a baby girl. The little stranger arrived yesterday, Sunday.

William B. Freeman, formerly of this city, is now proprietor of the Pawtucket away poultry farm at Raymond, N. H.

DRACUT

Dracut has a new social club which was organized during the past week. It is a young men's club and the charter members include a number of the leading young men of the town. Friday night the organization was perfected, the following officers being elected: President, Joseph Swift; vice president, Patrick Cassidy; treasurer, Louis Dwyer; secretary, George St. Leger; sergeant at arms, William Roddy.

Several sub-committees were appointed to look after various details of the preliminary arrangements which required immediate attention.

There was a considerable amount of discussion as to what would be an appropriate name for the organization, and a vote was ordered in arriving at a conclusion. The club will be known as "The Dracut Pleasant Social Club." The quarters of the organization are located in Pleasant street near the junction of Riverside, Hampson and Pleasant streets.

TO DESTROY BRITISH SCHOONER

BOSTON, Nov. 23.—It is probable that the new government derelict destroyer Seneca will be given its first assignment in New England waters in the destruction of the British schooner "Hedge," which sank in Broad Sound channel, Boston harbor, early Saturday morning, causing the drowning of five men. The sunken schooner lies directly in the path of shipping, with all sails still set, except her main topgall sail.

Again today boats cruised about the wreck, endeavoring to locate the bodies of the drowned men and it was also expected that divers would go below today.

Wonderful! Wonderful!

Talk about political rallies drawing big crowds! None of them are in it with the crowds that attended Steinberg's big clothing and furnishing goods sale. This clothing house has been conducting a big reduction sale, and prices asked for up-to-date clothing have been backed and chopped so that there is nothing left of them, and the people are wise. They stampeded the store Saturday all day and it took the services of the police to keep the crowds back. Now, for the benefit of the hundreds that were unable to get in the store we will continue the sale all this week at our store,

MISMATED PAIRS

JUDGE GASKILL

Tell Their Troubles to Judge Gaskill

The divorce court was crowded this morning when Judge Gaskill opened court, both within and without the lawyers' rail.

Most of the cases called during the morning were uncontested, out-of-town cases.

In one of the out-of-town cases in which the libellant wanted a divorce on the ground of desertion, Judge Gaskill sharply questioned the libellant as to whether he made any efforts to get his wife back after she had left him. The libellant answered negatively and the court after hearing the other witnesses dismissed the libel.

In all other cases the libellee was called.

Herbert C. Riddick of this city asked for a divorce from his wife, Gertrude E., on the ground of desertion, and on the ground of intemperance and cruel and abusive treatment. Mrs. Riddick testified that on different occasions her husband had assaulted her and that on one occasion he pulled a revolver and fired a shot through the door. The libellee was called, after two other witnesses had testified to having seen Hazelton assault his wife.

As he had finished testifying Judge Gaskill said: "I notice that this case was brought just three years and two days after the date of the alleged desertion. Was there any particular reason for such haste in suing for divorce?"

The witness answered negatively, stating that he knew that his wife would not return to him and that as soon as the time limit had expired he had brought proceedings.

"I had you any expectations of marrying anyone else at that time?" asked the court.

"I had not," replied the witness.

The libellees were also called in the out-of-town cases of Josephine E. Beckum vs. George L. Beckum and Ella C. Billings vs. Harry E. Billings both for desertion.

Emma M. Hazleton of this city, sought a divorce from her husband, Herbert E. Hazleton, on the ground of intemperance and cruel and abusive treatment. Mrs. Hazleton testified that on different occasions her husband had assaulted her and that on one occasion he pulled a revolver and fired a shot through the door. The libellee was called, after two other witnesses had testified to having seen Hazelton assault his wife.

D. Mabel Smith of West Medford, sued her husband, Dr. Frank S. Smith, on the ground of gross and confirmed habits of intemperance. The libellant and two physicians testified as to the husband's habits and the court ordered the libellee called.

ANOTHER DEATH

In the Family of Dennis F. Sullivan

While still in the depths of sorrow over the death of their beloved and talented son, the late Paul A. Sullivan, who passed away three weeks ago, the grim messenger has once more descended upon the grief-stricken home of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis F. Sullivan, of 122 Warwick street, taking away another promising son, Mr. Charles F. Sullivan, who died yesterday after a brief illness.

instrumental selections of more than ordinary merit. Charles Sullivan, whose death occurred yesterday, was but 23 years of age and was beloved by all who enjoyed the pleasure of his acquaintance. Like his brother, he was a young man of exemplary character, and unusual talent. He was born in this city, and after graduating from the local schools, entered the establishment of the Butterfield Printing company and learned the printing trade, at which he was employed up to the time of his illness a few weeks ago.

He was a popular member and past officer of the Mathew Temperance Institute, and was known as one of the principal "bustlers" of the society, no work in the interest of the society being too arduous for him to attempt and carry through to a successful conclusion. He had served as recording secretary and vice-president and had his life been spared, undoubtedly would have been prominent in the society in the near future. He was also a popular member of the Holy Name society of St. Peter's church. Besides his parents he is survived by three brothers, Humphrey F., John E., and William, and three sisters, Mrs. Minnie Lillman and Messrs. Sadie and Lillian Sullivan. To the grief-stricken family is tendered the deepest sympathy of a wide circle of friends. Funeral notice later.

PROF. MARTEL

Took Unto Himself a Bride Today

St. Joseph's chapel of St. Jean's church was the scene of a very pretty wedding this morning when Prof. Arthur J. Martel, the organist of St. Jean's church, and the popular piano teacher, was united in matrimony to Miss Stella Dumont. The ceremony was performed by the pastor, Rev. Fr. Campeau, O. M. I. According to the French custom the fathers of the young couple, Messrs. Edmond Martel and

Charles Dumont attended in the capacity of witnesses, in place of the usual bridesmaid and best man.

As the couple entered the chapel Miss Ernestine Alexander, who presided at the organ, played a wedding march. During the ceremony Miss Antoinette Montmarquet sang "Ave Maria." Miss Anna Bouassa rendered "Largo" and "Clermont" and Miss Nellida Cote "Volantes Vies."

After the ceremony the couple paid an informal visit to the home of the uncle and aunt of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. V. LaHuse, on Spalding street. The wedding breakfast was held at the home of the groom's parents, at 477 Moody street, and was attended by the immediate friends. The Middlesex orchestra, of which the groom is a member, was present, and during the morning discoursed sweet music.

Mr. Martel's gifts to his bride were a solid gold watch and a ruby ring. The bride was attired in a becoming gown of white tulle, and carried a huge bunch of pink chrysanthemums. When leaving upon the wedding tour, she wore a London smoke broadcloth gown and a black picture hat.

Mr. and Mrs. Martel, left this city on the 12:15 train this noon on a brief wedding tour, as the groom's position necessitates his speedy return to Lowell.

The couple received many and costly wedding presents.

CRICKET LEAGUE

One of the Strongest in the Country

The plan of grouping all the teams in one, lest the Massachusetts State Cricket league will be freed again next season, was the decision reached at the meeting held Saturday at the Revere House in Boston. That the league is one of the strongest in the country is proved by the fact that, according to the figures of Secretary Bennett, no less than 1100 players were registered with him during the past season, or in other words each team in the league registered close upon 70 men for the league matches.

Outside the limits of the city of Philadelphia, it would be hard to find a cricket league which could boast of such a record, and this goes to prove the fact, that is maintained by the official record of the league, that the organization representing the state of Massachusetts is in the forefront of American cricket today.

With a good list of teams in membership and an abundance of players registered for the game, there is no reason why the league should not become one of the best recruiting grounds for the young players, too, stands well in the forefront, and it is hoped that the invitation sent on from the league of New York will be considered by the Massachusetts body, and a regular set of test matches arranged between the two states.

AN EARTHQUAKE

Shock Was Felt at Franklin, N. H.

FRANKLIN, N. H., Nov. 23.—What is believed to have been an earthquake shook this city today. The shock lasted about ten seconds. Reports from various sections of the city tell of the rattling of crockery on shelves and the shaking of window shutters, but so far as is known no damage resulted. The movement of the shock is believed to have been from south to north.

FORTIFYING THE ISLAND

HONOLULU, Nov. 23.—A detachment of United States engineers under Major Winslow which arrived recently on the transport Sheridan has commenced the work of fortifying the island. The first work to be done is the dredging of the large drydock to be built at Pearl harbor and the deepening of the channels leading to it. The work in the near future. Several local contractors have been awarded contracts for the work. The dredging contracts will be opened early in December.

40 YEARS WED

Mr. and Mrs. Ogley Observe Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Ogley celebrated the 40th anniversary of their marriage Saturday afternoon at their home, 24 Blossom street. The affair was private, only the immediate relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Ogley being present.

Mr. Ogley was born in Nottinghamshire, England, in 1840 while Mrs. Ogley, who is two years his junior, was born in Gulesley, Yorkshire, England, in 1851.

Mr. Ogley was married to Miss Susan Waite at the Bradford Old Parish church, Yorkshire, England, Nov. 21, 1868. Eight children were born to them: Mrs. James A. Elwood of North Billerica; Mrs. Thomas Barrett of North Chelmsford; Miss Elizabeth H. O'Leary; Mrs. Jesse Whitworth; Mrs. Osmond Long; Mrs. Richard W. Potter; Miss Ada M. Ogley of this city, and Samuel A. Ogley of North Chelmsford.

Mr. and Mrs. Ogley and family came to this country in 1892 and have since made their home in this city where Mr. Ogley has for a number of years been watchman at the Thorndike suspension factory, Thorndike street, until his health became somewhat impaired. He has for late years devoted his time to cultivating a plot of land near North Billerica.

ROBBERY CHARGE

Was Made Against an Ex-Fireman

BOSTON, Nov. 23.—Abner Peterson, aged 29, a discharged member of the Somerville fire department, and Peter Mortensen, 32, were arrested early yesterday morning by Patrolman Gott upon the charge of assaulting and robbing Ernest S. Kimball on Cedar st., Somerville, but a short distance from Kimball's home.

Peterson was arrested several months ago at the point of Patrolman Taylor's revolver on Highland avenue charged with larceny from a building. When his case came before the superior court he was found guilty, but sentence was suspended and he is now practically on probation for that offence.

Both Peterson and Mortensen were identified shortly after their arrest by Kimball as his assailants. They are charged with the larceny of $11.90 from Kimball.

Kimball rode out of Boston on a Highland avenue car and remembers seeing Peterson and Mortensen on the same car. When he alighted at Cedar street he was followed by the two men, he alleges. Just before he reached his home they overtook him and seized him.

Both pounced upon him and in the mixup he was severely strangled. When practically helpless one man held him and the other went through his clothes and took his pocketbook.

They left Kimball lying upon the sidewalk and as soon as they ran away between two houses Kimball called for help. He told the first comer that he had been robbed and, Patrolman Gott was soon located by the citizen.

The patrolman found Peterson and Mortensen a few minutes later on Cedar street. Peterson submitted to arrest without resistance, but Mortensen put up a fight.

HORSE WAS SHOT

A horse belonging to Expressman Gershon was taken sick near the corner of Hale and Howard streets Saturday night. Agent Richardson was notified and shot the animal.

BIG EXPLOSION

Several Persons Were Seriously Injured

CHICAGO, Nov. 23.—One man may die and four women are suffering serious injuries as a result of the explosion of a moving picture machine, which resulted in a fire and panic in a five cent theatre last night.

The theatre was crowded with a large Sunday night audience when a film suddenly took fire and the picture machine exploded. In a moment the entire front of the theatre was in flames. Mangled and burned, the operator, Maros, jumped out of his blazing cage and ran through a crowd of women and children holding the stump of his bleeding arm and crying loudly. A general rush for the exits started. Women were thrown down in the crush. Several women fainted and half carried out of the building by men and boys. A fire company put out the flames. The damage was slight.

Both are said to have good chances for recovery.

Timely Sermon by Rev.
C. T. Billings

DR. MEAD WOULD BLOCK GIN
MILL WHEEL

No-License Sermon at Hathaway's
Theatre—Rev. Mr. Billings Preaches
Thanksgiving Sermon

Rev. C. H. Mead, D.D., of New York was the speaker at the Y. M. C. A. services at the Hathaway theatre, Sunday afternoon, and he was listened to attentively, by a gathering of men that well nigh taxed the seating capacity of the theatre.

He spoke in the interest of no-license and he was not a stranger to many of those who heard him yesterday. He having taken an active part in the campaign for no-license in this city a year ago.

His subject yesterday was "The Two Ladders." He described one as leading up and the other leading down, and it was from a compliment that he paid Fall River when he said: "The top of the one and the bottom of the other are as far apart as heaven and Fall River."

Dr. Mead had already said that the church was at the top of one ladder and the saloon at the bottom of the other.

The speaker said there is no neutral position in the present desire for better conditions. On the one side he placed the home and family and on the other the breweries and saloons. He asked all the voters present to vote "no" at the coming election.

Worthing Street Baptist

Dr. Mead delivered a no-license sermon at the Worthing Street Baptist church last night. "The Mills That Grind" was his sermon topic and he laid particular stress on the gin mill.
He said in part:

"The voter runs the gin mill. By his ballot he says the mill shall grind, and it grinds in the name of the city of Lowell. The boy, the girl, the man and the woman all go into the mill, and the machinery is maintained by your vote. Who cares about the victim?
Who cares about the mother? And why is the mill running? For dollars only. Undoubtedly the revenue from the traffic will influence some voters to cast their ballots for license. But which would you rather have, the

END OF A RED NOSE

New Flesh-Colored Product That
Heals and Hides Skin Imperfec-tions.

A peculiar feature of poslam, a new skin discovery, is that it is naturally flesh-colored and contains no grease, so that when used on the face for the complexion, or for pimples, red noses, or any other inflammations, blemishes, or discolorations, its presence cannot be detected. It can thus be applied in the daytime, the natural color of the skin being immediately restored and the actual healing and curing process accomplished in a few days. It can be had of any pharmacist who sells pure drugs. Falls & Berkinshaw and Carter & Sherburne's drug stores make a specialty of it. Fifty cents worth will answer either for the troubles mentioned or in curing ordinary cases of eczema. Itching stops at once.

The Emergency Laboratories, No. 32
West Twenty-fifth street, New York are the sole dispensing agents for poslam in the United States, and will send an experimental quantity free by mail in plain wrapper to all who write for it.

night application.

"The Habit of Gratitude"

At the First Unitarian church, Sunday morning, Rev. Charles T. Billings preached on "The Habit of Gratitude."

The habit of feeling of gratitude as spoken by Mr. Billings yesterday, had special reference to Thanksgiving, but he said it should mean a new inspiration for a nobler life. In part, he said:

"Spiritual power grows through expression, as the muscles grow strong through exercise; and what is hard for men at first, becomes the highest natural expression as they live on the heights of moral and spiritual manhood."

"All this is just as true of habits of gratitude. They are not easily acquired, yet they always mark our ideal of the true man."

"The essential condition of gratitude is that we receive some benefit. But many receive much who are not grateful. To be truly so, there must be some recognition of benefit. That recognition is the first step in forming the habit, and even that is none too common."

"There is danger in religion, that the form may be empty because the heart is not in it. There is danger that Thanksgiving may have as little to do with real gratitude, as noisy demonstrations have to do with real patriotism. Real gratitude can only come as a real expression of love to God. That is why Thanksgiving meant so much to

MARATHON CHAMPION HAYES AND DORANDO
READY FOR THEIR GREAT AMERICAN RACE

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—This illustration shows John J. Hayes, the American Marathon champion, and Dorando, the Italian, who was his plucky competitor in the Olympic games, as they appeared in training for their New York race. Dorando came to this country expressly to challenge Hayes, and the race is arranged to take place in Madison Square Garden,
New York, on Nov. 25. The winner will receive a large percentage of the gate receipts. Hayes met the Italian runner at the Hoffman House, where the articles were signed. One of the accompanying photographs shows
Hayes greeting his rival on that occasion.

our fathers. Their gratitude was the expression of a love that was real.

"What, then, does Thanksgiving mean to us? It depends wholly on the steps toward gratitude that we have taken. Perhaps we are accepting life and all it brings us as a matter of course; then Thanksgiving is but the holiday. Perhaps we measure the gratitude we ought to feel by the benefits
we have received; still the Thanksgiving remains a holiday. Perhaps we have learned to look beyond the benefits to the giver, and feel within us a sense of gratitude to forces that have helped build up our lives. Perhaps we have traced the giver to the ultimate source, the power of God, and then we join in the spiritual expression of the day; and finally, perhaps, the recognition of God makes us eager for a worthy response, and Thanksgiving day means a new inspiration for a nobler life. Then it means what it meant to our fathers."

"Doctor's Daughter"

THANKSGIVING MESSAGE.

Once more the day of Thanksgiving is upon us, once more the God of Love and Thanks breaks through the rift and we raise our eyes to our Maker and say, "Let us give thanks for this day."

Thanks for our dear ones that surround us, for our health, our home, our opportunities and possibilities, for the privilege of living and loving. Perhaps you are situated comfortably, surrounded by friends and family, or perchance you have no home at all and the struggle for existence is indeed a struggle. Memories filled with despair and sadness may crowd upon
you. Such memories feed upon you, deplete and devour the very life of your victim. Crowd them out, shut yourself against them and open up your whole soul to the joy of thanksgiving.
No matter what your station in life,
you surely have still much to be thankful for. Restore your child-heart and heaven itself will light your way.

Many have come to me this week full of praise and thankfulness for their restored health through Stomach-Rite and that this grand old remedy may be the means of making Thursday, Nov. 26, 1908, truly a day of joy and thanksgiving to many sufferers is the earnest wish of

from Hooksett to the Sacred Heart hospital at midnight Saturday night and died yesterday morning without regaining consciousness, from the effects of a self-inflicted wound from a

the left temple, took a backward course and was embedded in the brain.

Johnson was found unconscious on a back road near Martins Ferry at 8 o'clock Saturday night by Ernest Burbank who heard the shot as he was walking down the road. He had passed by the spot, going toward Martins Ferry only a moment before, carrying a lighted lantern, but had not seen Johnson and believes he was in hiding. It is said that he had tried suicide before.

MRS. MORRELL

WELL KNOWN PORTRAIT PAINT-ER DIED SUDDENLY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Mrs. Imogene Robinson Morrell, a celebrated portrait and historical painter, died early yesterday in a small room of a lodging house, alone and friendless, and amid surroundings of squalor and distress.

A half century ago she was a student under some of the world's masters in Europe. In 1879 she established the National Academy of Fine Arts in this city. She had received scores of medals for notable works.

Mrs. Morrell enjoyed the distinction of being the only woman whose painting occupies a place in the U. S. capitol, she having executed the notable picture of Gen. John A. Dix. More than 200 works of her brush were destroyed in a disastrous fire 12 years ago.
She was a native of Attleboro, Mass.,
and 77 years of age.

SWORN CIRCULATION OF THE SUN

The sworn daily net average circulation of The Lowell Sun for the year 1907 was

This is by far the largest net average circulation of any newspaper in Lowell.

AN EXAMPLE WORTHY IMITATION.

Judge Bishop did the right thing in sending to prison a chauffeur who was found intoxicated while driving an automobile. It would be difficult to imagine a greater menace to public safety than an automobile in charge of a drunken chauffeur. A sentence to jail will do more good to stop reckless driving than a thousand fines. It is to be hoped other judges will follow the example of Judge Bishop.

THE KAISER'S ERRATIC UTTERANCES.

Soon after the kaiser had delivered himself of a pronouncement of the very kind that he was forbidden to utter, he was effectively gagged by Chancellor Von Benlow, who instead of allowing him to speak extemporaneously handed him a printed speech which his majesty was obliged to read. It was prepared by the chancellor for the occasion, the centenary celebration of the city of Berlin.

The speech, it is needless to say, will cause no diplomatic sensations nor indignation at any foreign court. This is the direct result of the wild and unguarded interview given by the emperor to Dr. Hale, an American, for the Century Magazine and which after a radical revision was finally destroyed after it had been ready for the press.

In the interview the emperor was reported to have said that King Edward had been humiliating him for two years, and that he would welcome a great European war by which it would be shown that Germany is the greatest nation in Europe.

Coming as the deliberate utterance of the head of a great nation, this interview indicates that the emperor is wholly irresponsible at times, and it is no wonder at all that the chancellor and the other diplomats have a hard time keeping him under restraint.

Dr. Hale repudiates the interview as published in a New York paper, but it is the usual custom with diplomats to deny point-blank every interview or word uttered by them in confidence. Dr. Hale was appealed to for the suppression of the interview and has evidently consented.

TO REVIVE APPRENTICE SYSTEM.

At the meeting of the National Society for the Promotion of Industrial Education, in session at Atlanta, Ga., some valuable light is being shed upon the need of better facilities for technical instruction.

Considerable attention was given to the need of reviving the apprentice system in factories. A Lynn man came out as a champion of establishing trade schools in factories. This can be accomplished by simply restoring the apprentice system and giving the apprentices some opportunity to study the related sciences in connection with the trades they have undertaken to learn. These correlative studies can easily be pursued successfully outside the factories in night schools of other institutions.

On all sides the opinion seems to prevail that the present system of instruction in elementary schools is unsuitable to young men who have to go out into the world and earn a living.

The school curriculum is not sufficiently practical for the average boy.

There are at present few trade schools in which young men can learn trades. The system of manual training in the high schools of Massachusetts is educational, not technical, and people who did not at first perceive its use say it is a failure. It is not. It should be in the grammar schools rather than the high schools, however.

The state of Massachusetts is making some progress in the direction of establishing trade schools and a trade college, but it is going very slowly and very cautiously in the matter.

A great deal more could be accomplished by the revival of the apprentice system in factories than through any of the government trade schools. The factory would thus become in reality a school of trades. The time may come when this matter may be the subject of legislation favoring the apprentice system in factories. If the state expends money to establish industrial or trade schools why would not money be equally well spent in encouraging the apprentice system by which a vastly greater number of boys could learn trades than would be possible through even a large number of industrial schools?

This subject is coming to the front in a manner that demands attention of all educators and of parents who are anxious for the welfare of their children. The Massachusetts Industrial commission has presented some excellent ideas on the subject and some which it is to be hoped will be ultimately embodied in legislation to facilitate the learning of trades by young men and to make more practical the educational system in our schools.

There is a question whether the proposed trade school can be made a sort of extension of the present school system or whether it will be separate and distinct. It might be less expensive to have it under the direction of the school boards of cities and towns but this would entail the danger of making the whole system unwieldy and the results correspondingly disappointing. The whole problem is one that we surmise will be slow of development.

SEEN AND HEARD

A pleasant incident is reported from London in connection with the Eucharistic congress. At the great meeting in Albert hall a strange woman, who is a devoted Catholic, greeted Cardinal Gibbons in the morning and asked him for his blessing. The cardinal, smiling and asked her who she was. The woman replied "Mary Anderson." The cardinal immediately invited the old-time actress to visit him at Norfolk house. Behind this incident there is the history of Miss Anderson's (Mrs. Nevill) devoted life. She is a devoted Catholic and has been a nun for many years. She is now a widow and lives in a small house in London. She is a very old woman and is now 80 years of age. She is a very kind and generous woman and is always ready to help the poor and the needy. She is a very good friend of the cardinal and is always with him when he is in London. She is a very good friend of the cardinal and is always with him when he is in London.

The business man had nervous prostration and in fact a general collection of things that made it look good for doctors and his own family doctor ordered him away from the scene of his business engagements for at least six weeks. His attendants were ordered to keep him perfectly quiet and not to bother him with the news of the day.

At the end of six weeks the business man returned and was met at the depot by his coachman. No sooner had they left the depot than the business man asked: "What's the news, and what has happened since I've been gone?"

"Nothing that amounts to much," replied the coachman.

"No news at all, eh?"

"Oh, that reminds me, that your pet dog died since you've been gone."

"What happened to him?"

"He ate the meat of a horse that was burned to death and it poisoned him."

"Where did he get the meat of a burned horse?"

"That reminds me; your barn was burned and your horses perished in the flames and the meat from one of the horses killed the dog."

"How did the barn catch?"

"A spark from the house set the barn on fire."

"From the chimney, you mean?"

"No, and that reminds me again that your house was burned to the ground."

"How did the house catch?"

"A candle tipped over and set fire to a lace curtain."

"My house was lighted by electricity. We didn't use any candles."

"Well, your mother-in-law died and they were waking her. Of course, there are always candles at a wake and as I said before one of them tipped over."

"You're sure that my mother-in-law is dead?"

"No doubt about it?"

"No."

"What caused her death?"

"Oh, that reminds me. Her death was occasioned by the shock caused by your wife running away with the other coachman."

ONE CULPRIT CAUGHT

WHAT LABOR NEEDS

N. Y. Journal of Commerce: Labor needs to learn the value of efficiency and fidelity to its own interests, and if the unions would devote themselves to impressing that lesson instead of encouraging their members to get all they can for as little as possible they would serve a far more beneficial purpose for workmen as well as for the community.

THE TEXAN WAY

Springfield Union: It has remained for Texas to develop the latest wrinkle in agricultural fair displays. At the Dallas fair recently in the dairy section there was an exhibition of cows being milked by machinery. The milk thus obtained in sight of the visitors was conveyed to other machinery close at hand and came out at the end in the shape of ice cream without being touched or handled by humans. Can any of our "Yankee" cattle show beat that?

THE LAW'S DELAY

Boston Herald: Atty.-Gen. Bonaparte, addressing the National Municipal league convention, has used his caustic tongue to ask, why, in this country, there need be so often, "a forest of eternally between arrest and indictment of criminals, another forest between indictment and trial, and yet another between trial and actual punishment." He justly said that "the gravest and least excusable deficiency of our criminal law is found in its endless delays," and he correctly argued the much of popular discontent and current unrest is due to the imperfect workings of the courts, the obstacles that are put in the way of swift and severe punishment of crime. Removal of these obstacles, acceleration of the courts' procedure, withdrawal of many of the technical rights now given to individuals as over against the state's rights before the courts, would lessen and disperse much of the criticism of the judiciary, now heard in quarters where it formerly was not felt.

The Anti-Cruelty society of Chicago has gone to the aid of horses that are unable to draw heavy loads up the inclines at the Rust street bridge. In charge of an employee of the society, a big draught horse has been stationed at the top end of the bridge for use in assisting horses with heavy loads up the grade. The horse will be kept in use all winter and arrangements may be made for permanent service. This plan is in line with that of the S. P. C. A. of New York, which tries to make the hilly streets of that city passable in slippery weather by sprinkling them with sand.

Ernest Thompson Seton seems to be deliberately opening up a chance for an assault upon himself as a nature-fakir. In the new story about to begin in the Century he "lays out" to show that for ages the animals have been groping for an ideal form of marriage and his avowed purpose in the new story is "to show the man-world how the fox-world lives—and above all to advertise and emphasize the beautiful monogamy of the better-class fox." "The story of Domino Reynard," Mr. Seton told a questioner, gives the life history of a fox in the form of a fiction. It is a story founded on fact, on my own observations, extending over a period of many years. Domino Reynard, the hero of the story, is a composite of some 20 or 30 foxes that I have watched as they appeared either in a wild state or tamed in different households. Among other moral qualities which I have thus discovered in the fox is a strong monogamous tendency in his family relations, and that is something which I have emphasized in my story.

STANDARD OIL

Testimony Totals Near 4,000,000 Words

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—The federal suit to dissolve the Standard Oil Co., which has reached a high point of interest within the last few days by the testimony of John D. Rockefeller, president of the so-called oil trust, bids fair to establish records which will probably stand unbroken in legal archives for some time to come. Because of the date of the recorded testimony the United States circuit court judges, who will render the decision in the case, will learn of the evidence only from the summing up of counsel for both sides. To read the evidence which has been taken would require constant reading by the judges for ten hours a day for many months. The official stenographer says that the testimony totals nearly 4,000,000 words, besides an equal number of words and figures contained in the exhibits.

The suit against the Standard Oil Co., was entered in the federal court in Missouri over two years ago and the case has been expected for final adjudication it was determined to take the case tried before four circuit judges of the federal court, so that the decision might be appealed directly to the United States supreme court. Former Judge Franklin Ferris was appointed master to take testimony and he will certify the evidence to the court. The taking of testimony was commenced in this city on September 17, 1907, and it has continued with only a few brief recesses of the hearings until the present time. The hearings will not conclude, until some time in February, the defense having until December 1st to complete its case and the government having thirty days for rebuttal. It is likely, however, that an adjournment will be taken through the greater part of December.

Every word of the testimony at the hearings in this and other cities in which evidence has been obtained, has been taken by one stenographer, Robert Taylor of St. Paul. The oral testimony taken to date covers 12,000 typewritten pages of about 300 words each. The exhibits, consisting of copies of agreements, contracts, railway and pipe line sheets, six large volumes and counsel believe that when the case is completed the record will be double that of the testimony taken in any previous case in either this country or in England.

Argument of this long and important case has been fixed before the United States circuit court on February 23 next in St. Louis, and Frank Kellogg, special attorney-general conducting the federal suit, said yesterday that it would take a week or ten days for both sides to sum up. Moritz

SAYS PEOPLE SHALL NOT HAVE CONSTITUTION

TEHERAN, Nov. 23.—The shah of Persia has definitely decided that the people shall not have a constitution, and his proclamation to that effect will be posted in the mosques today. It has been evident for some time past that the shah was becoming less and less disposed to the maintenance of justice, and only recently, during an audience which he gave to the representatives of merchants, he showed signs of anger at the mention of the restoration of the constitution and dismissed the delegates from his presence. In his proclamation the shah says: "We were prepared to redeem our promise and convene a parliament, but we learn from the assembled representatives of the people that they do not want a constitution. We have, therefore decided to defer to their wishes, and the clergy and ecclesiastics having consented to the establishment of a parliament would conflict with the laws of the Islam, we determined in the future, under no pretext shall such parliament be established."

"Nevertheless in the interests of right, we have given the necessary instructions for the maintenance of justice. We hereby summon the ecclesiastical body to communicate to the whole people this our resolve, to protect the rights of our subjects and frustrate the wicked designs of evil-doers in accordance with the religious law."

The "maintenance of justice," to which the shah refers, apparently has to do with a long standing scheme to codify the laws.

TWO KILLED

MEN PROBABLY WERE STRUCK BY AUTOS

OSSINING, N. Y. Nov. 23.—Almost in front of the gate leading to the estate of William Rockefeller on the Boston post road, were found yesterday the bodies of William Arthur Purdy and Win. Kramer, both of Tarrytown. There is considerable mystery concerning the manner in which they were killed. The bodies, found by a milk man were lying some distance apart and were terribly mutilated. It is believed that the men were returning home yesterday morning and that they were struck by an automobile and killed. Then other automobiles passing over the road, ran over the bodies.

POPULAR OVERSEER

HAR IN DANGER

Yale V Admiral Dewey Collided With the Mt. Desert

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 23.—The lives of history writers and persons were imperilled American union in the fruit steamer Aden years ago toward bound from Ja-colors battled the steamer Mount in this premise bound from Bay Ridge fore that the banks. The Admiral battle and me suddenly out of a fog no-score game Mount Desert almost quarter of a e a gap in the fishing vessels extended from the upper decks to the lower. There were 150 passengers, including 20 women and six children on the Mount Desert, and the Admiral Dewey carried 45 pas-sengers, nearly all of whom were pos- al clerks returning from a trip to Kingstown, Jamaica. There were also 10 crew members of the two steamers.

A panic immediately followed the col-lision and it was not long before the De- vention of the Admiral Dewey, that a ca- strophe was averted, for the passen- gers on the fishing steamer began pil- ling over the guard rails of that vessel and jumped to the deck of the Admiral Dewey. Had he backed his steamer away, they would have fallen into the water.

But Davidon signaled the engine- room to keep the steamer moving slowly ahead and this kept the sharp prow of the steamer in the rent that had been made and afforded safety for the frightened passengers of the Mount Desert.

Thus the two steamers moved slowly toward a east bank of the lower bay, not cold at scene was occurring on a huge mas, it was believed the Mount fast s- id sink and the passengers fought frantically to get to the deck of the Admiral Dewey. Many of the women of the fighting steamer fainted. The children ran about the deck, crying, and men battled with each other to reach the steamer's deck.

Above the uproar could be heard the voices of Capt. Davidson of the Admiral Dewey and Capt. Beebe of the Mount Desert, assuring the terror-stricken people that there was no danger.

A number of persons were slightly injured in the stampede. Men and women crowded over the guard rails so rapidly that they tramped upon each other. Capt. Cornelius J. Hayes and Lieut. Samuel G. Belton of the city police department were passengers on the Admiral Dewey, and it was largely because of them that no one was seriously injured. Bullets rescued one woman who had been pushed from the deck of the Mount Desert and was hanging by one hand to the shattered guard rail of the Mount Desert, and he and Hayes stood at the prow of the Admiral Dewey and pulled the men and women to safety as they swarmed on the deck.

In a brief 15 minutes fully 350 of the people were safely on board the Admiral Dewey. By this time the Admiral Dewey had pushed the Mount Desert close to the east bank. The former drew more water and Capt. Davidson discovered that his steamer was striking bottom.

Nearly all the passengers of the Mount Desert had been transferred and the people subsided. Capt.
Davidson signaled to the tug to stop and a few minutes later the boat drifted apart.

Wrecking tugs and other boats had been dispatched to the scene as soon

The highest quotation for 38-inch 64x64s was 2 1/4 cents, and the lowest 3 cents. The highest quotation for 35-inch 64x64s was 4 2-3, and the lowest 4 cents. The highest daily margin during the period was 77.612 and the lowest was 43.112. The midspring lands cotton is selling today at 9.45 and the quotation on 28-inch 64x64s is 2 1/4 cents. The quotation on 38 1/2-inch 64x64 is 4 1/2 cents, and the margin today is 75.1612. Thus, the margin today is over 16 points higher than the lowest of the last 48 days and the trend appears to be upward.

The margin is based on the cost of eight pounds of middling upland cotton and the selling values of 5 yards of 28-inch 64x64s and 33.11 yards of 38 1/2-inch 64x64s and is computed at the end of every six months and the average daily margin for this period determines the rate of wage that shall be paid for the succeeding six months. The agreement which was entered into between the Cotton Manufacturers' association and the Textile Council some time ago stipulated that 78 points shall be the recognized standard price for a yard of 28-inch points based on the cost of the above cotton and the selling values of the cloth mentioned.

The highest margin named is 23.96 cents for weaving a cut of print cloth with a margin of 15 points and the lowest is 12 cents with a margin of 78 points. The average daily margin for the past six months is 80.656 points which is practically 12 points below the minimum rate. The low margin since May compels a reduction of a little more than 3 per cent. in the rate of wage, but still leaves the margin of 78 points in this cut of material, on Dec-

Heads, but the commendation of Jesus Christ, and for the one who returned with express words of gratitude on his lips. There is gold hidden in these rock-ribbed hillsides of old Massachusetts, but not enough to be practical mine. So we want gratitude enough to find expression for itself. The kind of gratitude that would not be turned into thanksgiving, a service of thanksgiving on Thanksgiving day by the attractions of a football game, the morning mail, or the office desk.

"Practical thanksgiving is that which moulds conduct to please and gratify one's benefactor. The psalmist found that one who had sat at his board, his own familiar friend, had lifted up his heel against him. This is as abnormal as a father for a son, or a phil, but evil is as abnormal. The public man cannot take a personal favor from constituents, lest he lose his freedom to act his convictions in the legislative halls. Gratitude is obligation. Personal conduct which pleases the giver of good and perfect gifts is practical thanksgiving.

"Political thanksgiving is the hand reached to clear the business of a benefactor. Over our splendid American cities rests a cloud darker than the smoke of their factory chimneys.

"By the testimony of a woman in a Lowell police court, there is a place of business here where her husband has spent $15,000. In return he has received the loss of his position in business, loss of his life, loss of self-respect and loss of liberty. That is the highway to a man's business. Help God to drive us from our midst. The hurrying steps of those who come up to the help of the Lord against the mighty. That is practical

$7,500 LOSS

WAS CAUSED BY A FIRE IN AT TELEBORO

ATTLEBORO Nov. 23.—The third Sunday night fire, believed to be incendiary, to occur on successive weekend nights in this town, last night consumed the farmhouse and barns of Benjamin Estes at the corner of Washington and Draper streets, burning besides the buildings 25 head of cattle and three horses, besides valuable modern farming implements and hay and grain. The loss is estimated at $7500; covered by insurance.

The police have started an investigation.

city. Beginning next month, the telephone will be sold on the basis of 18 cents.

With the reduction of 17.94 per cent. made last May, and the eight or more per cent. to be made within a few weeks, the operatives in this city will have sustained a cut aggregating about 25 per cent. within a year.

AN INJUNCTION

AGAINST AMERICAN TELEPHONE AND TELEGRAPH CO.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 23.—Judge Taylor, Saturday, granted an injunction against the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. (Bell long distance system) and the Central Union Telephone Co. (Bell company operating in Ohio, Indiana and Illinois), restraining them from interfering with the business of the independent companies operating in those and adjoining states. The injunction was granted at Cleveland upon the application of Clarence Brown, general counsel, and James S. Ely, Jr., president of the United States Telephone Co., which is the independent long distance telephone company, operating in Ohio and adjoining states, in a suit brought by that company.

canals and see the homes they have supported, the hunger they have satisfied, the lights they have kept burning to drive back the shadows against the window pane. But this church has been a channel through which God has caused rivers of living water to glad den youth and mankind. At that quarter century anniversary we may make this place a veritable oasis of green compared with the bare branches and brown grass outside these walls. We may sing such anthems that it may seem as when angel bands swept their harps of gold over Bethlehem's plains but no observance can be so fitting as for young people to offer the tribute to the roll of this church, in recognition of its work for growth these five and twenty years; and men and women in recognition of the work which God, through this church, has done for manhood and womanhood. That is practical thanksgiving."

opposed to speeding and reckless driving, are not content with this action alone, but intend to place the responsibility upon the highway builders. They urge the motorists of other states who in many cases do not show any desire or inclination to observe the local speed laws. Many of the automobile clubs affiliated with the American Automobile association have in the past several months endeavored to break up reckless driving and speeding through the principal thoroughfares, and the Automobile club of Springfield has taken drastic action which will without doubt have a reaching effect.

At a recent meeting of the board of directors of the automobile club of Springfield, one of the largest and most influential in the state, it was decided to have suitable cards printed which will be displayed in the windows of the hotels and garages in Springfield.

ists to use the roads in a safe and sane manner, and if they fail to comply with the club's request, the directors have decided that there is but one alternative; that is the establishment of speed traps. The directors of the Springfield club is determined that the speed laws shall be properly observed by the local motorists feeling morally responsible for the acts of the motorists from other states, and they will not hesitate to establish traps if it is deemed necessary.

The directors of the Springfield club have taken the first step upon their own initiative without waiting for special complaints to be made and the connection have taken more radical action than the other clubs in New England, which have been considering the best means of discouraging the continuous speeding over the highway.

It was only a few weeks ago that Secretary Elliott of the American Automobile association, in a warning against reckless driving, to the effect of the 200 automobile clubs scattered throughout the United States to the effect that drastic anti-automobile legislation would surely be enacted in many of the eastern states, particularly in Connecticut, if a stop was not put to the reckless driving. There has already been some agitation for the repeal of the Connecticut automobile statute considered one of the modern motor vehicle laws in the country, unless the automobilists touring through the state, cease speeding and thereby tend to diminish the number of accidents which have occurred to other states on the highways.

There is something which automobilists might like. It is a speed trap, and the rules of the road.

LOWELL HIGH WON

Defeated Haverhill by Score of 22 to 4

Saturday afternoon the Lowell High school team came into its own again. The tremendous driving power and efficiency of the team which, prior to this game, had remained latent, found its outlet in a splendid display of its best advantage. To those who witnessed the contest this slashing, heady game was indeed a revelation, for none expected, from the team's previous playing, that it was capable of such power. To begin with the Leggett that played against Haverhill was a wholly new and entirely different man from the Leggett that played against Lawrence. Saturday he seemed to appreciate the powerful machine under his guidance and worked to the limit. For the first time this year he directed his attack with speed and precision. His judgment, which was severely criticised in the second half when Haverhill's right side weakened, Leggett sent play after play there scarcely any two plays alike, and Haverhill was wholly unable to diagnose the attack.

Moore, whose ground gaining ability had not been exhibited prior to Saturday, played a whirlwind game; on two plunges through left tackle he gained 15 and 20 yards. In fact, all the team individually stood in the limelight at one time or another. These two plunges of Moore; Canney's slashing drives through center; Connell's end runs; O'Donoghue's receiving of a kick and 20 yard run; Flanders and Kelsey's opening of holes; O'Donoghue and Hyland's defensive work; Donovan's handling of forward passes and brilliant run; Rooney's passing and breaking through; and Gargan's crossbucks and defensive work.

The team was in first class condition and firmly resolved to atone for the Lawrence game. At first Haverhill's delayed pass and criss-cross bothered some but after trying this play half a dozen times, Haverhill had to give it up as Lowell had it sized up and Gargan, O'Donoghue, Canney and Hyland were throwing the backs for losses every time.

As far as physical condition was concerned Lowell was far ahead of Haverhill. Though the lines were about equal in weight, Haverhill's back field was heavier than Lowell's. But in spite of this Lowell came through the game without a scratch. Not so for Haverhill; on almost every rush in the second half some Haverhill man was on the ground for the count. Their line could not stand up under the grueling charge of the Lowell line. Early in the game Flanders had Dugdale, (his 220 pound opponent) worried to death and was charging past him in grand style. Dugdale retired before the half was over with a strained knee. Lowell seemed to gather speed as the game progressed and at the end of the contest, while Haverhill was panting and striving to block the attack, Lowell was ploughing ahead in a rip-roaring fashion, without any apparent signs of discomfort or exhaustion.

THE GAME ITSELF

Haverhill won the toss and chose to kick off. Lowell elected to defend the north goal. Wood kicked to Leggett, who ran back five yards. After a couple of ineffectual line buckles, O'Donoghue punted to Gorman. Then Haverhill got her backs working with the delayed pass until Gorman worked the play to death. The ball was gradually advanced to Lowell's four yard line. Under the very shadows of the goal post Lowell braced and held for two downs. Then, with one final effort, Ryan plughed at left tackle and when the pile was finally pulled apart, it was found that the ball was still two yards away. O'Donoghue immediately punted to Gorman on the 40 yard line. Again Haverhill ploughed away, but could get no closer than 20 yards to the goal. Here Wood dropped back and near the 32 yard line, after a poor pass from the center, dropped a perfect field goal. Score—Haverhill 4, Lowell 0.

O'Donoghue kicked off to Ryan. After failing to make first down in three plays, Wood punted to Connell. With the score against them, Lowell started in to overtake Haverhill. From the 40 yard line, on cross tackle plays by Connell and Gargan, and a dash through left guard by Canney, the ball was worked to the five yard line. Here Leggett called for a formation, the objective point of which was apparently the right side. Haverhill immediately shifted its defense to meet the expected attack. But Canney with Connell pushing shot through the left side and with nobody in his way crossed the line for the first touchdown. No goal. Score—Lowell 5, Haverhill 4.

Wood kicked off and after half a dozen plays time was called.

SECOND HALF

O'Donoghue kicked off to Gorman. Again Haverhill started its rushing game, refreshed by the intermission. Aided by an outside kick, and a recovery of a fumbled long punt, Haverhill had first down on Lowell's 20 yard line. Lowell held on and third down with two yards to make first down, Gorman called Wood back for another field goal. The ball punted the yard by about two yards and resulted in a touch back. O'Donoghue kicked out from the 25 yard line.

Haverhill was unable to gain and from then on resorted to a defensive game, punting on almost all first downs. Lowell got the ball in midfield. After a plunge through left tackle, Canney with a quick kick from formation footed the ball for 40 yards. It took Haverhill entirely unprepared, and Gorman was alone in the back field. O'Donoghue was down the field like a flash, running ahead of his ends. The ball bounced in front of Gorman, while Donovan was still three or four yards away. "Jiggs" shot into the air and literally snatched the ball from Gorman's outstretched arms. He spirited the remaining 20 yards across the goal line. Through some accident, the referee blew his whistle while O'Donoghue was still running. Though no Haverhill man was near O'Donoghue, save Gorman, and he was too dazed to act, Ryan claimed that his men stopped at the whistle and the ball should be brought back. To avoid delay and dispute, the ball was brought back to the 15 yard line. With the touchdown snatched away from Lowell, the latter proceeded to make amends, and what the team did to Haverhill then was worth seeing.

The remarkable reserve force, moral and physical, which the team possesses, here asserted itself. The machine again started to overcome the obstacles in its way. First Canney was pushed and pulled along for five yards. Then Connell in a burst of speed shot past left tackle and with beautiful interference on the part of Gargan and Canney covered the remaining ten yards for the touchdown. Rooney kicked the goal. Score—Lowell 11, Haverhill 4.

Wood kicked off, and on the first play O'Donoghue punted well down into Haverhill's territory. Haverhill tried to rush, but could only make five yards in three rushes. Here Gorman tried a forward pass, but threw the ball directly over center instead of the required five yards' distance from center, and it was Lowell's ball on Haverhill's 40 yard line. Canney, Connell and Gargan kept up their powerful driving, and, helped along by the team play of the line, were enabled to make 20 yards in three rushes. Then Moore, for the first time, was called on and starting from his position took the ball through left tackle. He is a big husky man, and keeps his feet well. With beautiful interference he passed the scrimmage line, and keeping his feet moving, he was pushed and hauled the 20 yards for the touchdown. Rooney kicked the goal. Score: Lowell, 17; Haverhill, 4.

Wood kicked off and O'Donoghue ran back 10 yards. Connell went around left end for 3 yards. On a pretty trick play O'Donoghue forward passed to Donovan and the latter sprinted down the field unhindered for 30 yards, till Gorman tackled him. Moore was again called on and in a similar manner to his previous run, plunged through left tackle for 15 yards and a touchdown. No goal. Score, Lowell, 22, Haverhill 4.

Wood kicked to Donovan, who plunged straight down the field, throwing off 2 or 3 tackles by his speed, and advanced the ball 50 yards before he was nailed. Time was called before play was again started.

The lineup:

Flanders 12

SAW BASEBALL GAME PLAYED IN TOKIO

TOKIO, Nov. 23.—In the presence of an enthusiastic crowd of more than 8000 persons the American baseball team, which came to Japan to play some of the Japanese university teams, opened the season yesterday and defeated Waseda university, 5 to 0. The Waseda team played snappy ball but did not get a man as far as second base.

Count Okuma, the Sage of Waseda university, wearing the cap and coat of the American team, tossed the first ball across the plate. After the game the American players were the guests of Count Okuma at a garden party given by him in their honor.

WOMAN SAVED

DRIVER SENT FIRE APPARATUS INTO POLE

BROCKTON, Nov. 23.—While responding to an alarm for a fire at the residence of James H. Cooper, 40 Newton street, yesterday afternoon, Driver J. L. Parker was forced to send the wagon of engine 5 crashing into a pole in order to save an unknown woman.

In the dash to the fire it was necessary for Parker to spin the wagon sharply around the corner of Belmont street. One of the women stepped into the street at almost the same instant. Parker threw himself against the reins and crashed the pair of horses and the wagon against the pole on which the box 61, which had sounded, is fastened, bringing one of the horses to the ground, frightfully lacerated about the flank. The driver was thrown head foremost from his seat.

He landed on the back of the high horse and escaped without injury. D. C. Hones, who was riding on the rear of the wagon, was thrown off but escaped injury. The wagon was damaged. The fire itself did $200 damage at the home of Mr. Cooper. The damage was covered by insurance.
